THE SICKLES TRAGEDY.

Trial of Daniel E. Sickles for the Murder of Philip Barton Key.

OPENING OF THE DEFENCE.

ARGUMENT OF JOHN GRAHAM.

Increased Excitement at Washington.

SIXTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 9.

The pressure upon the Court-room this morning was very great, and there was intense anxiety to hear the theory of defence about to be started by Mr. GRAHAM, who, having temporarily occupied the position of District-Attorney, pleasantly remarked to that officer that it was not his intention, however, to discharge any part of Mr. OULD'S duty. Mr. GRAHAM commenced the statement for defence, with a pile of authorities before him. Many new faces from New-York were to be seen in the Court-room.

Mr. GRAHAM noticed the following remarkable features in the conduct of the prosecution:

First—Enforcing the property qualification, and outraging the rights of a fellow-creature.

Second—Employing additional counsel.

Third—The language of the District-Attorney in speaking of the transaction.

Fourth—Attempting to garble the evidence, in stopping a witness while on the stand.

Mr. GRAHAM held that the great question was the condition of the mind of the man who slew the defiler of his marriage bed, and entered into a lengthy definition of malice to show absence of malice in the transaction under investigation. He stated four general propositions: First, that human laws do not protect all human rights; second, that divine laws secure certain rights, and these laws need not be reënacted to give them vitality; third, that divine laws do not make it a crime to enforce them; fourth, the reason and meaning of the old rule that made homicide committed by a husband on discovering a man in the act of adultery with his wife, punishable as a simple manslaughter, and not as a murder.

He held that there are seven questions for the consideration of the Court and Jury, viz:

First—How far the Government is bound to make out a case by facts, and not to rely on presumptions.

Second—How far the old rule of presumed malice will be considered.

Third—How far the old rule would be applied in a case of adultery.

Fourth—The reason or principle of the old rule.

Fifth—The effect of this old rule.

Sixth—How far the provocation affected the mind of the accused.

Seventh—Whether there was sufficient time for passions to cool.

He argued that the prosecution must show affirmatively the sound mind of the prisoner, and cited the highest legal authorities of New-York in support of the proposition; a case having been reversed by the Supreme Court on account of the State not having proven the soundness of mind, and the prosecution have failed to prove this fact respecting SICKLES.

Mr. GRAHAM claimed the acquittal of the prisoner on the evidence as submitted by the Government. He also contended that the truth of a declaration drawn out by the Government stands as a fact, until disproved by other evidence. The Government proved that SICKLES said "KEY had defiled his bed," and this proves the fact of adultery; yet, he added, the defence will nevertheless put the adultery before the Jury in all its hideous and disgusting details.

He proceeded to discuss the heinousness of the crime of adultery, holding that it was not necessary to justify a man in killing the adulterer that he should catch the offender in the act, but only that he should be so near the truth as to leave no doubt of his guilt. If (said Mr. G.) society has not protected you in the chastity of your wives, it is proof conclusive that you have a natural right to protect them as much as you have to protect your own lives.

Mr. GRAHAM read from the Bible a copious collection of passages to show that, by divine law, adultery is punishable by death, and that both in olden and in modern times it is perfectly justifiable to kill the man who has been guilty of it. He also cited illustrations from the common law, and then entered upon the discussion of his fourth point, viz.: The reason and meaning of the old rule that made homicide committed by a husband on discovering a man in the act of adultery with his wife punishable as simple manslaughter and not as murder. Now, (said the counsel,) did this rule, which made the killing a mere formal offence, apply only to the case of a husband who had detected the parties in the very act of adulterous intercourse? or did it not apply as well to the case in which the husband discovered irresistible proof of such an act having been committed? If the law required that the husband should wait until he detected the adulterers in the commission of the act, then he might never make such a discovery. If he caught the offender coming out of his wife's bed, would he have a right to kill him? The rule which reduced the homicide from murder to manslaughter, when the killing was committed under the provocation produced by discovering his wife in the act of adultery, was a figurative rule; for if a man had not the right to avenge himself till he actually discovered the adulterers in the act, he virtually had no such right at all. The conviction of the husband at common law, as for manslaughter, was merely nominal, for it carried with it a merely nominal punishment.

In considering the sixth point, Mr. GRAHAM claimed that the condition of Mr. SICKLES' mind, at the time of the commission of the act in question, was such as to render him legally unaccountable, as much so as if the state of his mind had been produced by a mental disease. We mean to say (continued Mr. G.) not that Mr. SICKLES labored under insanity in consequence of an established mental permanent disease, but that the condition of his mind at the time of the commission of the act in question was such as would render him legally unaccountable, as much so as if the state of his mind had been produced by a mental disease. In other words, the proposition we argue to this Jury is this: It is no matter how a man becomes insane; Is he insane? that is the question. Whether it results from disease of mind or body or sudden provocation, it is perfectly immaterial, and the privileges of accountability attach as much in the one case as in the other.

Mr. GRAHAM then read a number of English authorities, showing the circumstances under which murder was reduced to manslaughter by the common law, and compared the provocation in such cases with the high provocation under which Mr. SICKLES acted, and again reviewed his definition of malice as used in the books. The defence, he said, conceded that the taking of life in cold blood, or under improper excitement, is criminal; but such are not the facts in this case. SICKLES knew that KEY had besieged his castle, and that he had hired a house near the residence of the accused, wherein to hold his assignations with his wife. KEY used the neighborhood peopled by blacks, in order that he might not be seen by his associates. He used the public square, the Club-House, his opera glass, his handkerchief—all the appliances necessary for the adultery. Mr. SICKLES met him without forewarning, and frenzied by the appearance of the heartless and unrelenting seducer of his wife, rushed upon him and killed him. Should the offspring of another man's loins mix with his family, and divide its inheritance? What man is so made of flint that he can walk in the presence of his fellow men, with some one secretly smirking or smiling at him, because he knew or has enjoyed his wife incontinently. What resource was left to a man in the event of such a discovery, but either to lay violent hands on himself and defend his own dignity by suicide, or lay those violent hands on the adulterer? And though that adulterer had passed from the scene of the living, and though he might be remembered unduly, yet so far as he formed the subject matter of this inquiry, his acts were to be exposed in all their depravity, and with all their aggravations.

Another important point respecting the question as to the condition of Mr. SICKLES' mind was, "Had he any hand in originating his own passion?" Had he first provoked Mr. KEY, and then killed him, the case might have been different. If he had been under the influence of liquor, he would have been in fault, but such was not the case. KEY alone, who had degraded his wife, was responsible for the frenzy which overwhelmed him. Every action must be judged by the actor. Had Mr. SICKLES any mind or intention? The Bible and the decisions of our Courts say No; and therefore he cannot be subject to legal penalty. There must be will and intention, and this cannot be in a mind transported by fury and frenzy. If we are so constituted (continued Mr. GRAHAM) as to be unable to control our nature, under the circumstances surrounding this case, then there is no responsibility. The provocation was more than human nature could bear; and the law regards the part the deceased acted as creating that provocation. Hence, it is above the visitation of human law. The indictment declares that SICKLES was tempted by the devil; but how monstrous would be a verdict rendered against the prisoner so indicted! For it would be a virtual declaration that the devil, and not the high and ennobling feelings of his nature, incited him to slay the seducer of his wife. The counsel proceeded to discuss the question as to the prisoner's state of mind, and argued that the mind is not perfect for the purposes of human accountability, unless it possesses the reason which informs the will, and the ability which enables the individual to obey the will. If the mind is in that condition that either reason or the will is dislodged,—and then one of its departments is gone,—the state of mental unsoundness thus induced equally excused from accountability. The criminality of the act depended upon the amount of will that entered into it. Without moral liberty, said DEANE, (Medical Jurisprudence,) there could be no responsibility for crime. But what moral liberty was there on the part of the husband, when he came to deal with the seducer of his wife; when he came to be confronted with the man who had blasted his hopes and his prospects, and who had brought disgrace on himself and his household? Who would say that a man thus circumstanced, possessed enough moral liberty to be held accountable for crime?

It being near three o'clock the Judge intimated to Mr. GRAHAM the advisability of suspending his address till Monday.

Mr. GRAHAM only asked leave to exhaust his references on this branch of his opening, to which the Court yielded. In a few minutes Mr. GRAHAM concluded the discussion of his sixth point, and sat down.

The District-Attorney asked the Court to allow the Jurors the privilege of walking out on Sunday, under charge of the Marshal; and suggested whether, thus accompanied, they might not be allowed to go to Church?

The Judge said he was a church-going man himself; but as the Jurors were probably of different denominations, he did not see how the suggestion was practicable.

The District-Attorney acceded.

The Court was then adjourned till Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Q.

[FROM THE REPORTER FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

WASHINGTON, Saturday, April 9.

Mr. Graham consumed the whole day in the opening address. His associates would have preferred brevity in the opening; they wished to reserve their plan of operations for the present, to say nothing of Mr. Key except that immediately connected with the transaction, and to withhold comments on the prosecution

There has been no attempt to account for the disparity between the size of the bullet extracted from the body and the bore of the Derringer found in the street. The defence deny that the Derringer belonged to Mr. Sickles; no effort has been made to trace it to him, and the defence will make the most of this circumstance, and claim that it belonged to Mr. Key, and, perhaps, that the first shot came from Mr. Key. As to the two keys found in the pocket of the deceased, the idea is that they were those of the house in Fifteenth-street, where the meetings took place; and, if so, that circumstance will be put in evidence.

Two letters from Mr. Key to Mr. Sickles, one indignantly denouncing the insinuation made with respect to his familiarity with Mrs. Sickles, and the other accepting a subsequent invitation to dinner, will be offered in evidence; if not admitted, counsel will make use of them before the jury.

The pressure for admission becomes greater as the care progresses. Many are present from New-York. Among them John Kelly, Sheriff; John Cochrane, M. C.; John Clancy, County Clerk; Captain Dowling, and Owen W. Brennan. Mr. Bagioli has returned to New-York.

Proceedings in the Territorial Court—The Army at Camp Floyd—General Items of News.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

GREAT SALT LAKE CITY, Friday, March 11, 1859.

On Tuesday, 8th instant, the United States District Court, Second District in this Territory, commenced a session in Provo City, Utah County, Judge CRADLEBAUGH presiding. After the swearing in of the Grand Jury, His Honor proceeded to deliver his charge. He made a violent attack upon the Legislature of the Territory, and charged it with making laws calculated to destroy the ends of justice, and bind his hands from performing the duties of United States Judge, and imputing to the body the most sinister motives.

Judge CRADLEBAUGH has secured the services of a company of infantry, 100 strong, while he holds Court in Provo. He has said, that he obtained them to guard a "calaboose" for prisoners, as he was certain there would be a great number. When the soldiers entered Provo they were about to camp on the citizens' private property, raise their tents in the yards, and interfere with the arrangements and rights of the people; and did not hesitate to insult and threaten when remonstrated with. When the Judge had delivered a few sentences of his charge to the Jury the infantry surrounded the Courthouse and encamped there until the adjournment of the Court. The inhabitants have all the time manifested the greatest order; and they desire to assist all in their power to carry out the object and designs of the Court; but they feel indignant at the menace of bayonets.

At the Supreme Court held on the 28th day of August, 1858, at Fillmore City, Chief Justice ECKELS and Associate Justice SINCLAIR present, it was appointed that the Second District Court should be held at Fillmore City, commencing on the first Monday in each November Judge CRADLEBAUGH, however, has seen fit, on his own responsibility, to hold a Court at Provo, in March, 1859. The inhabitants must be silent and quietly acquiesce, or be branded with the stigma of withstanding the authority of the United States Judges.

The soldiery are kept under strict discipline, and seem to be snugly quartered for the Winter. This season has been unusually long, and the times consequently harder, but everything is sought and arranged for the comfort of the men. A large room has been erected for a theatre, and several popular pieces have been successfully performed. The company is composed chiefly of the soldiery, who act their parts with great credit and talent; the rest is made up of Mormons.

Gen. JOHNSTON is much beloved by the army here, and the highest opinion is entertained of him by the inhabitants of the Territory generally, as a high-minded gentleman and noble officer, whose desire it is to preserve peace and good feelings with the inhabitants. The same cannot, however, I regret to say, be stated of many other officers of the army. Some of them have manifested a disposition to create a collision between the army and civilians.

No small amount of stealing is carried on by some of the hangers-on and part of the soldiery; several of the latter have been drummed out of quarters, and banished their corps. That is, however, a step to be regretted, as there is no place so well calculated to punish them as in the Army, and they are now let loose on society, from which they must steal a living and an outfit for other parts.

This is the longest Winter ever experienced in this Territory. The snow has been on the earth since the middle of November, 1858, and there is no appearance of its breaking at present. Indeed, it snows severely while I write. It has, however, not been so cold as some years past.

The teamsters who arrived here late in the Fall, who have no employment, have spent, long ago, their little means, and now live bountifully on the old settlers, by their pickings. Stealing and burglary prevail to an extent altogether unprecedented in the history of the Territory, and it is certain that the herds throughout the country will suffer materially when the gates of snow are loosened from their icy hinges, and the way open for the egress of emigrants.

The meat store of Mr. BROCKBANK, in this city, was broken open last week and a great quantity of meat stolen therefrom. The thieves turned out to be discharged teamsters from the contractors' trains.

The Humboldt Indians have traveled round to Toole Valley recently, and driven off a number of stock belonging to the citizens in that and this valley. They seemed incensed, and state the cause was owing to the Superintendent of Indian Affairs behaving shabbily and meagerly on his last visit to them. He gave them a shirt each and three charges of powder. They went from him, and forthwith discharged the powder, and expressed their indignation. To wreak their vengeance they now steal the stock of the settlers. Whether their declarations are true or not I cannot say, but it is much to be regretted if any cause of that kind should exist.

Preaching is attended to as usual in the Tabernacle on Sunday, and in the several Ward School-houses, and the doctrines of Mormonism enunciated for the benefit of the passer through, and to strengthen the brotherhood.

It is currently reported here that the army will be removed in the Spring, a movement which will affect as a matter of course the trade of the Territory; but it will likewise draw off the influx of gamblers, blacklegs and thieves, and their concomitant influences, drunkenness, debauchery and crime, which so much annoy the citizens generally.

The California mail arrives here very regularly, weekly, by the new route, which is much appreciated by the inhabitants. Generally the eastern mail has arrived very regularly, which is a source of great accommodation in keeping us posted with the sayings and doings of the rest of the world.

A Board of Officers, consisting of Captains H. H. Bell, W. M. Glendy and Franklin Buchanan, and Commanders R. F. Pinckney and John Rodgers, has been ordered to convene at Annapolis on the 20th instant, for the final examination of the class of midshipmen which graduated in 1856.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

Miramon Retires from Before Vera Cruz—The Liberals Surrounding the Capital—Mr. McLane at Vera Cruz—Later from the North.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, April 8.

By the Quaker City, Vera Cruz dates of April 1 have been received.

The news is important.

General MIRAMON appeared before Vera Cruz on the 18th ult. with an advanced guard of three hundred men. He reconnoitered the place and retired to his main army, which was encamped near Medilline, nine miles off.

The women and children in Vera Cruz were transferred to the ships, and the Liberals prepared to make an animated defence.

MIRAMON sent 1,200 men against Alvarado, but finding the place strongly defended they retired without attacking it. MIRAMON, finding himself out-generaled at all points, broke up his camp on the 27th and commenced his retreat on the capital.

Gen. AMPUDIA was in strong force to cut off his retreat. DEGOLLADO, with 4,000 men, was at Tacubaya, and other Liberal forces surrounded the capital, which was expected soon to surrender.

Mr. McLANE, the U. S. Minister, arrived at Vera Cruz on the 1st of April, amid great rejoicings for MIRAMON'S retreat and the arrival of the U. S. Minister.

[From a private dispatch received in this City we learn that, attended by Mr. LA SERE, the President of the Louisiana Tehuantepec Company, Mr. McLANE, immediately upon his arrival, had waited upon President JUAREZ, and had expressed great satisfaction with the results of his interview.]—ED. TIMES.

NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, April 9.

Private advices per Quaker City's mails confirm the accounts of MIRAMON'S retreat, with the Liberal army pressing on his rear.

From the Rio Grande.

CAPTURE OF GUANAJUATO—SUCCESS OF THE LIBERALS—MOVEMENTS OF VIDAURRI AND GARZA.

The Brownsville Flag, to the 23d ult., received at New-Orleans, contains later news from the northern frontier. The Flag, of the 16th, says:

"We have advices from Monterey to the 10th inst., and from Victoria and Tampico of corresponding dates. From these we learn that there is no truth whatever in the reports put in circulation as to the success of the Reactionists. In fact, the contrary seems to be the true state of the case.

A friend in Monterey, writing us on private business, at the close of his letter, gives the following item of news:

"In taking this letter to the Post-Office I was surprised by the ringing of bells, caused by the arrival of cheering news. Guanajuato has been taken by the Liberals. It seems that after the taking of Leon by our troops, they purposed marching upon Guanajuato, but while preparing for this movement, were surprised to find that those of Guanajuato were coming on them. They met, and, after three days' fighting between Leon and Guanajuato, the latter place was taken by the Liberals, under ZARAGOZA and QUIROGA; having entirely defeated the enemy and taken possession of all the artillery, ammunition, &c. This is the latest news. The fighting was said to have been desperate, covering a distance of fifteen leagues between the two cities. This victory will place those of San Luis Potosi in a critical situation, unless they can unite with their friends at Morelia. Thus you see how the Liberals progress without the 'hero of the North.'"

The Governor of Zacatecas has sent VIDAURRI $12,000 to place his forces in the field.

From Tampico we have but little of interest. Señor TREVIÑO was energetically managing the Executive office, while the former Governor, GARZA, was at the head of the troops of the State, intending to march with 3,000 troops upon the City of Mexico, as stated.

The Flag, of the 23d ult., says:

Our dates from Tampico reach to the 12th inst., and correspondingly from Victoria; at neither of which places do we find anything of moment. Ex-Governor GARZA had left Tampico with 300 men for Vera Cruz, with a view of aiding that city in its defence against MIRAMON. He will remain in case he is needed, otherwise he will return immediately and march to the interior.

Col. GARCIA was still occupying his position of observation, at his old quarters. It is said that he has his forces under the strictest discipline, and that he had shot one of his captains on conviction of treason.

News from the Pacific.

ONE WEEK LATER FROM CALIFORNIA—INTERESTING SHIPPING INTELLIGENCE.

NEW-ORLEANS, Saturday, April 9.

The steamship Quaker City arrived to-night with San Francisco advices to March 21.

The steamer John L. Stephens has arrived at Panama, with San Francisco dates to the 21st ult., and $1,500,000 in specie.

The Vanderbilt line of steamers had stopped running.

The California news is unimportant.

The excitement at Shasta was amicably settled. The troops sent there had been successfully landed, and marched to Mohaves.

The mining prospects and receipts of gold were scant, in consequence of the bad condition of the roads.

Money was tight, and the trade depressed, in consequence of large expected arrivals of goods. Sugar was active. Dry goods importers are doing little. Domestic spirits firm. Boots, shoes, naval stores and provisions dull.

The following ships had arrived at San Francisco during the fortnight:

Intrepid, Argo, Carrier Dove, Edward Stanley, and Ocean Telegraph, from New-York; Winfield Scott and Fearless, from Boston; John Clark, from Baltimore; Frigate Bird, from Hong Kong, and Elvira from Cardiff.

From Boston.

THE POST-OFFICE QUESTION—THE JUNIOR MUTINEERS—FIRES, &C.

BOSTON, Saturday, April 9.

It is stated that the Boston Post-office Committee held a meeting to-day, but failed to come to any agreement. Some of the Committee are said to be opposed to paying so large a sum to get the office back to State-street, with no certainty of its remaining there more than a few months.

CARTHAY, HERBERT and STANLEY, the mutineers of the New-Bedford whaleship Junior, were arraigned this morning on a second indictment for killing JOHN SMITH, the third mate of that vessel. They plead not guilty, and were remanded for trial.

EDWARD H. DELANO, naval constructor at Charlestown Navy-yard, died to-day.

A fire in East Boston, last night, destroyed a ship-house, foundry, stables, and several sheds, mostly the property of SAMUEL HALL and W. C. BARSTOW. Loss about $20,000.

Over one thousand acres of woodlands were burned over in Marshpee and Falmouth, yesterday, and at the latest dates the fire continued spreading.

Arrival of the Canada at Boston.

BOSTON, Sunday, April 10.

The R. M. steamship Canada, Captain LANG, from Liverpool 26th ult., viâ Halifax, arrived here at 5 o'clock this morning. Her mails for the South were forwarded by this evening train viâ New-Haven, due in New-York at 6 A. M. Monday.

Change in the Southern Mail Arrangements.

WASHINGTON, Sunday, April 10.

An entire change of trains and mails will take effect on Monday, the 11th inst., between Washington and New-York, as well as on the Western route by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The mails from the South and Washington will leave at 4½ A. M., and reach New-York at 3 P. M., instead of 6½ P. M., as at present, giving ample time to connect with the Boston boats and afternoon trains from New-York for the East, North and West, by the Hudson River, Erie and other roads.

The train will leave New-York at 7 A. M., instead of 8, as heretofore, passengers and mails reaching Washington at 6 in the afternoon. According to the Columbus Convention agreement, the Baltimore and Ohio Road begins, on Monday, to ticket passengers between New-York, Boston, and all the Western cities, for $1 less than other lines, the Baltimore Road adhering to a moderate speed of 26 miles, average running time, between New-York and Cincinnati, while the other lines have quickened to a much higher speed than ever before.

The Southern Mail brings New-Orleans letters and papers of Tuesday last. The latter contain no news of importance.

Arrest of a Murderer of his Family.

BANGOR, Me., Sunday, April 10.

MARSHALL POTTER was arrested on Saturday, at St. Stephen, N. B., by Officer BURT, of Lee. He is charged with causing the death of his mother, two brothers, and nephew on Thursday morning last at Lee, and robbing the house of $150. It will be recollected that he was the only one that escaped when the house was burned. He was fully dressed, and his two brothers who slept in the same room were burned, as were also his mother and nephew. He left immediately after the fire, changed his clothes at Carroll, and succeeded in reaching New Brunswick before he was arrested. His clothes were bloody, and the money earned by his two brothers during the Winter was seen in his possession.

PATRICK WALL, Esq., of this city, a clothing dealer, was seriously injured on Saturday evening last by a gang of ruffians, who attacked him with slung shots and stones.

Funeral of Gambrill, one of the Baltimore Murderers.

BALTIMORE, Sunday, April 10.

The funeral of GAMBRILL, who was hung on Friday for the murder of Officer BENTON, took place from his father's residence this afternoon. There was an immense turn out of his friends and associates, including many notorious characters. The line of hacks extended over half a mile. It is worthy of remark that RICHARD HARRIS, the party charged before the execution of the deceased, with being the real murderer of Mr. BENTON, and by GAMBRILL himself, in his so-called dying declaration, was at the family residence this afternoon, and prominent among the mourners at the funeral.

Mrs. Hartung, the Poisoner.

ALBANY, Saturday, April 9.

In the Assembly, to-day, Mr. MORRIS asked unanimous consent to introduce concurrent resolutions expressing the belief of the Legislature that MARY HARTUNG deserves Executive clemency, and exhorting the Governor to review his decision and commute the sentence, or, at least, delay the execution one year.

Messrs. TUTHILL and GODARD objected, and the resolution, therefore, failed.

The Pike's Peak Mail.

LEAVENWORTH, Kansas, Saturday, April 9.

AFFAIRS AT ALBANY.

Prospects of the City Railroads—Dubious Position of the Charter—The Compromise Wharfage Bill—Office of Inspector of Vessels Not to be Abolished—The Brooklyn Water Bill Amended—The Sewerage Bill Passed the House, &c.

ALBANY, Saturday, April 9, 1859.

The lobby now, like despairing States, looks to the Senate. All yesterday, but especially last evening, the crowd went up to look at it. The reference of the City Railroads was the first question of interest, which at last was settled by sending them to the Committee on Cities and Villages. It was supposed that this would be to choke them—Senator HALSTED having made a written report against City Railroads early in the Session; Senator ELY having shown hostility to all of them but the Avenue D road, and Senator NOXON'S sentiments being as yet unpronounced. But the fact that Senator ELY last night tried to send them to the Railroad Committee looked as if he was willing to have them well treated. Briefly, the enemies of the roads are in high glee, thinking they are locked up for the year, while the friends think their prospects brighter than ever. I think that the Avenue D road and the (Williamsburgh) Grand-street road will be reported by the Committee readily, as public necessities called for on every hand, while the rest may wait for a little higher tide.

Where should the New-York City Charter go? Tactics tried to force it into almost every Committee in the Senate, but at last it was sent to a Select Committee, and the friends of the Charter were satisfied that, after knocking out the extension of the official lives of the Corporation Counsel and Chamberlain, it would be permitted to pass. On the other hand, the enemies think they have suffered no damage thus far. Fearing that the Charter may possibly fail, the Assembly's Grinding Committee will probably consent today to grind the Senate's Health bill, when with a little amending it ought to pass. If it should—after being made to abolish distinctly and unmistakably the City Inspectorship,—the Charter must be stripped of its sanitory features, so if both should pass there would be no conflict between them.

The Wharf bill, which has lain nearly two months in the desk of the Committee on Commerce, was reported yesterday, and sent to the following Committee to report complete: Messrs. Moore, Reilly, Opdyke, Coburn and Miller. To-day it was ordered to a third reading. The bill is represented as a compromise between the shipping interest and the wharf-owners,—and at the expense of the small wharfage-payers and consumers generally. The following are the new rates for vessels using wharves in New-York and Brooklyn: For every vessel of 200 tons or under, one cent per ton; for every vessel over 200 tons, one cent per ton for each of the first 200 tons, and for every additional ton one-quarter of one cent per ton. For every vessel making fast to another vessel lying at wharf, or for every vessel lying at anchor within any slip, one-half the above rates. The captain or owner of any vessel that shall leave a wharf without paying wharfage due, and neglect for 24 hours after demand to pay up, forfeits double the rates.

The owner or lessee of a wharf may charge five cents a ton on all goods remaining on his wharf more than 48 hours; the charge is a lien on the goods, and no goods can lay on any wharf accessible by public streets for more than five days. The Pilot Commissioners may require owners to keep their wharves in repair and their slips dredged out, and if their specific requirements are not complied with in 90 days, owners are liable to a fine of $5 a day. Canal boats, barges, and lighters, are excused from the increased rates of charge. A majority in interest of owners or lessees of wharves may represent the whole in respect to third persons for the collection of wharfage, for repairs, &c.

Senators have amended the Brooklyn Water bill and laid it aside awhile, until Brooklyn can be heard from. The principal amendments are these: Reinserting permission to build a covered conduit in place of the open canal east of Baisley's Pond; striking out the town rights' reservation of Queens and Suffolk Counties; reducing the amount to which bonds may be issued to $500,000; reducing the personal bonds that Commissioners must enter into; gives the appointment of Commissioners to the Mayor and two-thirds of the Common Council. The Sewerage bill was read in the Assembly to-day, and passed.

The act transferring the surplus of interest from the "Interest Sinking Fund" of New-York City to the "General Sinking Fund," was read a third time and passed. As the law establishing the Interest Sinking Fund compels the moneys to be invested in securities that do not now exist, a failure of this bill to pass the Senate would leave $250,000 belonging to that fund idle for another year.

The License bill came up again as agreed to by the Select Committee, but after a smart skirmish was lost—and this time past all possibility of recovery. So this Legislature has refused to tinker the License laws, refused to perfume a rotting carcase, declined to gild rotten wood

The Personal Liberty bill, amended so as to strike out the most precipitous steeps, but still leaving the right of trial by jury to every fugitive slave, was adopted by a large majority.

PETER DUFFY need not quake in his boots. The worthless and unnecessary office of "Inspector of Vessels" will not be abolished this session, nor will the bill which some (who ached to fit a friend to the promised opening) smuggled into the House during the week, making it a port-office, to be filled by the Governor, with orders for the incumbent, between April and November, to inspect all coastwise vessels, and receive therefor a scale of prices that would make the berth only second in remuneration to the Health Office, rob commerce, swindle the State, and disgrace the party that created it. This bill, raising its tender head above water about 5 o'clock last evening, was so severely thumped that it will never be heard of again. Nor have those who most desired its passage been seen since JACOB SMITH moved to recommit to strike out its enacting clause. GLAUCUS.

NEW-YORK LEGISLATURE.

SENATE....ALBANY, Saturday, April 9.

Mr. J. D. WILLARD moved a resolution fixing the final adjournment on Thursday, the 14th inst. Laid on the table.

The Special Committee on the New-York Charter bill was announced, namely: Nixon, Diven, Ely, W. A. Wheeler and Mather.

The General Appropriation bill was taken up and amendments adopted restoring the salaries of the clerks of the Secretary of State, of the Treasurer and of the other State Departments which were cut down by the Committee of Ways and Means.

Senator MATHER'S resolution, inquiring of the Attorney-General whether the decision of the Court of Appeals on the Metropolitan Police case involves the payment of salaries to the old police force and their restoration to office, and whether the City or State is liable, having been submitted, the Attorney-General replies, after reviewing the case and stating that the decision of the Court of Appeals makes the City liable for the full payment to all members of the old police who have not resigned or withdrawn, or been discharged after the personal service of the charges and an opportunity to be heard in defence, that the cities of New-York and Brooklyn are liable for the expense under law.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. SCHELL, from the minority of the Finance Committee, presented a report on the communication from the Commissioners of the Canal Board respecting the financial condition of the State. The report strongly protests against borrowing to pay the interest on the Canal debt, holding that the time has come when taxation is demanded to redeem the State from debt. A bill is appended to the report, imposing a tax of three-quarters of a mill for the year commencing October, 1858, and the proceeds are appropriated as follows: $20,000 to pay the debt made by the Commissioners of the Canal Fund; $130,000 to pay the advances for the interest on the Canal Debt from the sinking fund, and the balance to be applied to the payment of the interest on the Canal Debt for the year 1859 to 1860.

The bill to protect gas consumers was ordered to a third reading.

The Albany and Susquehanna Railroad Loan bill was reported favorably.

Mr. SPINOLA moved to bring forward the Atlantic-street (Brooklyn) Tunnel bill. Motion lost.

The General Appropriation bill was then taken up, and the appropriations for the several charities restored.

ASSEMBLY....ALBANY, Saturday, April 9.

Mr. RANNEY, from the majority Special Committee, reported favorably on the pro rata Railroad Freight bill—Messrs. OPDYKE and MALLORY dissenting. The report was ordered to be printed. The bill now goes to the Committee of the Whole, with little prospect of coming up again during the present session.

The bill to create a public fund for New-York called the Croton Water Fund, and to provide for the transfer of two millions to the Sinking Fund of that City, was passed.

The bill to extend the act providing for the sale of the State Arsenal in New-York, was passed.

The bill for the better regulation of the New-York Firemen was ordered to a third reading, as also were the bills,

To provide for the payment of the City Cemetery at Ward's Island;

To license lighters for the Port of New-York; and

To regulate the rates of wharfage.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The important Canal bills were considered in Committee of the Whole, and the following ordered to a third reading:

To provide for the performance of certain duties imposed upon the Canal Commissioners when they are disqualified from acting.

To provide for the payment of the work done and materials furnished certain sections of the Erie Canal.

To submit to the people the proposition to loan two and a half millions for the payment of the Canal floating debt.

BILLS PASSED.

To incorporate the Queens County Savings Bank.

To protect the country banks from improper detention of their notes.

To incorporate the Dime Savings Bank, Brooklyn.

To authorize the reduction of the capital stock of banking associations.

To incorporate the Preparatory School of Medicine.

To enlarge the powers of the District Courts and the Courts of Oyer and Terminer.

The bill incorporating the Trustees of the Women's Library in New-York passed the Senate, with the amendment of a clerical error, on Friday. It was returned to the Assembly and the amendment concurred in by that body to-day. The bill only awaits the Governor's signature to become a law.

Appeal for the Woman's Hospital.

Among the many noble Charitable Institutions which are found in the City of New York, there is none which presents more urgent claims on the good will and support of the public than the "Woman's Hospital Association,"—and there is none, certainly, more in need of its liberal patronage. The evils which it is calculated to relieve are so wide-spread—the benefits it can bestow are so important, that it can appeal to every member of the community—for no home is secure from the intrusion of the particular form of suffering which it offers to alleviate.

The Association was organized in 1855, and in the few years of its existence, under the skillful and devoted superintendence of Dr. J. MARION SIMS, has been the instrument of restoring to health and comfort, many a sufferer whose maladies had hitherto baffled relief. It depends for its support upon yearly subscriptions and donations; and these are entirely inadequate at present to meet the demands upon it. The suffering are turned away because there are no means of providing for their wants. They must be housed, fed, warmed and clothed. In addition to the care of the surgeon At this moment the Association is without funds, but not without eager applicants for admission to the Hospital. Must its usefulness be curtailed? Must the suffering continue to suffer? Or will those blessed with the power and the will to give, aid in diminishing the amount of human wretchedness, by contributing to the funds of this Association. We trust that this appeal may not be in vain, but that it may meet with a response that will relieve the anxiety of those who are struggling to sustain the Hospital, and strengthen them to persevere.

Any contributions sent to the Hospital, No. 83 Madison-avenue, addressed to the "Executive Committee of Woman's Hospital," will be gratefully received and acknowledged.

MRS. WM. B. ASTOR, Second Directress.
MRS. ROBERT B. MINTURN, 3d Directress.

MRS. T. C. DOREMUS, Assistant Treasurer.
MRS. WALDEN PELL, Secretary.

BOARD OF MANAGERS.

MRS. G. G. HOWLAND, MRS. JAMES W. ALEXANDER,

NEW-YORK, April 7, 1859.

[It will be seen by a notice in our advertising columns, that the Rev. Dr. SCUDDER is to deliver his Lecture on India at the Academy of Music on the evening of the 14th, in aid of this most excellent and deserving charity. We cannot believe that an institution so peculiar in its character, and which has the chance of doing so much good, will find its operations permanently crippled or restricted for lack of funds.

Prunes.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your domestic market review, last Saturday, you mentioned that prunes were extensively used as a substitute for dried peaches and dried apples. You also mentioned that those from Turkey were the best, but you did not mention the fact, which ought not to be overlooked, that there is a great difference in the qualities of Turkish Prunes. Many of them become heated, and sweat on the passage, which greatly impairs their quality. Those that are not thus injured may be distinguished by a candied or whitish appearance. Such prunes, when free from a smoky flavor—as genuine Turkish Prunes always are—are a real luxury; and a free use of them will be found to be a preventive of inflammatory intestinal disorders, and to prepare the system for a free indulgence in the use of strawberries and other garden fruits, when the season for them arrives. A FRUIT DEALER.

FOUND DROWNED AT STATEN ISLAND.—Coroner VANDERBILT held an inquest, on Saturday, on the body of a man about 30 years of age, 5 feet 5 inches in height; had large dark whiskers (full) and dark brown hair; dressed with red flannel under-shirt, two white shirts, a blue knit woolen overshirt, dark-colored tweed pants, calf-skin boots, and a brown silk neck-tie; had upon his left hand a plain gold ring, also one of gutta-percha; a wallet containing $14 in notes was found upon him; a small apothecary's envelope, which had been emptied; also, a card of "Newark House, T. P. BRADLEY, No. 70 Newark-avenue, Jersey City," and on the back of it, "C. RIDER, No. 62 Redcliff Hill, Bristol." The body had been but a short time in the water, as his watch was yet in motion, and portions of his hair and clothing were not wet.

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

DESTRUCTION OF THE CHAPEL AND TOWER AT THE CEMETERY OF THE EVERGREENS BY FIRE.

The tower or observatory, and chapel erected on the high land in the Cemetery of the Evergreens, about eight years ago, were entirely destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon last. The fire was discovered at 1½ o'clock, by the boy stationed in the tower, whose duty it is to give notice of the entrance of funerals at either gate of the Cemetery by ringing a bell. When he discovered the fire it was bursting through the roof of that wing of the building in which the "office" is located, near the chimney. A high wind was prevailing at the time, and in less than thirty minutes the entire structure was leveled with the ground. Mr. BENNET, the Superintendent of the grounds, was near at hand, and with one or two others attempted to stay the progress of the fire, but their efforts were useless, as there was but little water on the premises. They succeeded, however,

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The news we receive from Mexico is of the highest interest. The formidable expedition of President Miramon against Vera Cruz had proved a failure. The main body of the reactionists had advanced within nine miles of the city, when Miramon advanced on the 18th ult., with 300 men to reconnoitre. The sight of the preparations for his reception seems to have discouraged him. Falling back to head-quarters, he broke up his camp on the 27th, and commenced his retreat toward the Capital. Gen. Ampudia, at the head of a force 400 strong, was reported to be so stationed as to enable him to cut off the retreat of the baffled soldier. The Liberals in the meantime were mustering in force at the very gates of the City of Mexico, which had been left without defenders in the march upon Vera Cruz. It was hardly probable that Miramon could effect an entrance, were he to reach the city unmolested.

From Northern Mexico our advices are later, but not important. Generals Vidaurri and Garza were both about to take the field, to cooperate in the general movement to the southward. The Liberals had only secured Guanajuato, after a severe but triumphant conflict with the Conservatives.

San Francisco advices to March 21 have been received by the arrival of the Quaker City, at New-Orleans. There is nothing from California of special importance. The John L. Stephens took down $1,500,000 in treasure to Panama, to be shipped on board the Aspinwall steamer for this port. Money was tight, and trade, in consequence of the expected arrival of large shipments of goods, had become depressed. It is announced that the Vanderbilt line of steamers had ceased running, but no explanations are given.

The steamship Canada arrived at Boston at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and her mails will reach this City early this morning. The very full summary telegraphed from Halifax embodied all the news of interest.

The defence in the Sickles case was opened on Saturday by John Graham, Esq., who occupied the whole day in his argument, which was not concluded at the adjournment of the Court at 3 P. M. He entered in full upon the question of adultery, and contended that Mr. Sickles, in killing Key, but obeyed the sudden and uncontrollable impulse of his passion. He quoted very freely from the Scriptures and from other sources to show the heinousness of the crime of adultery. The excitement attending the trial continues unabated.

An effort was made on Saturday, in the Senate, to fix the final adjournment of the Legislature for the 14th inst., but the resolution introduced for that purpose was laid on the table. In reply to the resolution introduced by Senator Mather, the Attorney-General sent in a communication, in which he expresses the opinion that the late decision by the Court of Appeals makes the cities of New-York and Brooklyn liable for full payment of salaries to all the members of the old police who have not resigned or withdrawn, or been properly discharged after trial. The bill to protect gas consumers was ordered to a third reading. In the Assembly the Special Committee on the pro rata railroad freight bill made a favorable report, but as the matter has to go to the Committee of the Whole, there is little prospect of its being acted upon during the present session. Several New-York bills were ordered to a third reading—among them the one for the better regulation of the firemen, and the one to regulate the rates of wharfage. The bill providing for the submission to the people of the proposal to borrow two and a half millions to pay the interest on the Canal debt, was referred to a third reading. The bill to protect the country banks from any improper detention of their rates was passed; also the bill to enlarge the powers of the District Courts and the Courts of Oyer and Terminer.

We published a few days since a telegraphic dispatch announcing the burning of a house at Lee, Me., with all the inmates but one, who made his escape through a window. Subsequent circumstances induced the belief that this one who escaped was guilty of the murder and robbery of the four persons who perished, and that he set fire to the house to conceal his terrible crimes. The clothes which he wore were found to be bloody, and he had in his possession a sum of money which was known to have belonged to his brothers. He was arrested in New-Brunswick while attempting to make his escape.

The safe of the President and Cashier of the Allentown Railroad Company was broken open on Saturday, and $112,000 in railroad bonds, checks and diamond jewelry were stolen. A young clerk in the office was arrested, and confessed the robbery, with the exception of the jewelry. The bonds and checks were recovered and the lad was sent to the City Prison to await his trial.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania on Saturday, by a vote of 71 to 8, refused to grant the petition of Mrs. Fry for a divorce. The Special Committee having the affair under consideration made a report in her favor some time ago, but their report seems to have had very little influence in deciding the case.

To-day an entire change in the Southern Mail arrangements goes into operation. The mail will leave this City at 7 o'clock A. M., instead of 8 o'clock as heretofore, and reach Washington at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. From Washington, the starting time will be at 4½ o'clock A. M., and the time of reaching this City will be at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The arrangement with respect to passengers and the rate of speed, agreed upon by the late Convention held at Columbus, will also go into effect to-day on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The Captain of the Eleventh Ward Police has discovered a nest of receivers of stolen goods, whose head-quarters were in Avenue C. Ten arrests were made on Saturday, two of whom were women; five of them were found in Hackensack, N. J., and the others in this City. About $3,100 worth of goods, consisting of silks, velvets, and other costly fabrics, have been recovered. The supposed leader of the gang has not yet been arrested. It is believed that the gang is composed of over thirty, and that their operations are not confined to this City.

The weekly returns from the City Inspectors Office indicate a very favorable condition of the public health. The whole number of deaths during the past week was but 378, showing the large decrease of 48 on the week previous. Of the whole number of deaths 208 were under the age of ten years, and 48 were in the public institutions under the charge of the City. The decrease in the deaths is chiefly in the cases of diseases the throat and lungs. The most striking fact in the report is the difference between the mortality of last week and the corresponding week of 1858, there being a decrease of 57 deaths.

The new Quarantine Commissioners have organized and chosen John C. Green, Esq., their Chairman; but it is understood that they will take no steps towards effecting the object of their appointment until the Legislature shall have come to some definite action on the Quarantine bill now before them.

On Saturday, 7,000 bales Cotton were sold, including about 6,000 bales in transitu, the latter at a shade firmer prices. Breadstuffs continued depressed. A pretty fair business was reported in the principal kinds of Provisions at essentially unchanged figures. Groceries were less active. Common Resin was in brisk demand at advanced rates. The movements in other branches of trade were very moderate. The total number of vessels of all classes in port was 502.

The New Charter.

The new City Charter has a rough time in the Legislature. Everybody concedes that something of the kind is needed,—and also that the fundamental principle of this bill is just and wise. But each faction, each class, and nearly every man interested, wants some "little amendment" in its provisions. The Mayor don't like to have anybody's term of office extended beyond the duration of his own. The Tribune don't want "Dick Busteed" kept in office an hour after midnight on the 31st of next December. Tammany Hall shudders at the thought of putting the job of cleaning the streets into the hands of the Republican Croton Aqueduct Commissioners. The members of the Common Council are horrified at the proposition to have contracts confirmed without their sanction. This is stripping them of the most important—because the most lucrative—function of their office. And their dignity is touched in its most sensitive point when it is gravely suggested that, to make up for their losses, they shall receive a thousand dollars a year for their services.

Every one who knows anything of the practical workings of our City Government, understands perfectly that the existing contract system is the very seat and heart of the corruption which poisons every branch of the public service. It is through the contract system that Aldermen and Councilmen are enabled to make their places worth having. It is through this system that men have gone into the Common Council without a dollar in the world, and owing the strikers and pugilists who controlled the Ward meetings and gave them their seats,—and have, after two or three years of unsalaried service, retired to palatial residences on the Avenue, sporting fast trotters, importing costly furniture, and living in the highest style of coarse, vulgar and costly luxury. To deprive the Common Council of all control over contracts would be to spoil the vocation of an Alderman, and reduce that office to the level of an honest calling. It would do more than any one act besides to deprive the City of the ornamental and inestimable services of the ringleaders of the inside combination, and to fill both Boards with mere vulgar, honest, disinterested business men. Against such a catastrophe nothing that the majority in either Board can do will be left undone.

There are some features in the bill which are of most questionable propriety, and we heartily wish they were out of it. The extension of the terms of office of several incumbents is a very doubtful point,—and can only be justified by some overwhelming necessity growing out of the public service. We presume, too, its legal validity will be contested, and such a controversy ought by all means to be avoided. We have suffered enough already from such collisions. The experience of the Police contest and of the struggle for the Street Commissioner's Office ought to be a warning against any legislation which can by any possibility involve similar contentions hereafter. It would be far better for all concerned, and especially for the City, to throw out this section of the bill entirely, than to run the risk of a long and expensive litigation upon any one of these points. Yet we presume the main strength of the bill lies in the combination of interests which this provision implies. The really valuable features of the bill probably would not give it a decent vote in either branch of the Legislature. They are thrown in as make-weights,—as plausible excuses for the doubtful provisions which are really the main objects the measure is intended to secure. This is an unhappy feature of the legislation of the day,—that corrupt influences seem essential to the accomplishment of even the worthiest and most desirable ends.

We hope the bill—in its main features at all events—will pass. We hope the Executive power will be concentrated, and its responsibility correspondingly increased. We hope the City Inspector's office will be made an efficient working bureau, in the hands of a competent man, instead of the scandal and disgrace to the City which it is at present. We hope the care of the streets will be put in the hands of an honest and independent department, such as we believe the Croton Aqueduct Board to be. We hope, especially, and above all, that the Common Council will be stripped of all connection with City contracts,—that this prolific source of corruption will be closed, and the whole matter of contracts left where it belongs, in the hands of the Executive departments concerned. And we hope that the members of the Legislature will understand the motive of much of the pressure to which they are subjected against this bill, well enough not to give it any more influence on their conduct than it deserves.

A British Legislator in Illinois.—Mr. James Caird, a member of the Imperial Parliament, visited the United States last Fall, and is publishing the results of his observations in a series of letters in the London journals. He extended his journey to Illinois, and looked in upon its State House at Springfield. With what he witnessed in that occidental capital Mr. Caird expresses himself highly gratified. What effect might have been produced upon his mind had the Legislature been in session it is perhaps as well not to inquire. But with the State officers whom he found in their several bureaus, Mr. Caird was decidedly pleased. The Secretary of State was very polite, showing him over the building; the Auditor supplied him with documents, and the Treasurer "who locks up the money and disburses it exactly like a clerk in a bank, for which he is paid a salary of £400 a year," expounded to Mr. Caird the condition of the finances. The British legislator is too polite to say that he discovered anything unpleasant in the Treasurer's exhibit. Possibly that official practised a degree of reserve on some points. For the credit of his State it is to be hoped that he did. Indeed there can be little doubt about the matter, for Mr. Caird takes occasion to admire the "frugality" of the Illinois Government. What especially excited his wonder, however, was not so much the politeness of these functionaries as "a total absence of form and ceremony," and the fact that they "are not above doing their own work." While he was conversing with the Secretary of State "a man about thirty, with his hat on and his hands in his pockets, came lounging in" and called for some information "about an old County road, of which no record could be found in his County," and the Secretary immediately went off to "fix" him about the road. The other State officers were in like manner at everybody's call.

Such things, though so much a matter of course here as never to be remarked upon, no doubt appeared strangely enough to a member of Parliament accustomed to the forms, ceremonies and delays of the British Circumlocution Office. Certainly there is great common sense in the direct and easy manner in which our private citizens carry on intercourse with those who occupy public stations, compared with the embarrassing and useless formality required in England, as well as in the working character of our officials, even the most elevated in position, as contrasted with the habits of those with whom Mr. Caird was familiar in his own country. The difference is owing to the direct dependence of office-holders here upon their constituents. Human nature is much the same everywhere. A man who owes his election to the people, and who, perhaps, desires future favors from the same source, will hardly venture to be above his work, or lacking in the politeness which becomes his station.

The Contest in Mexico.

The fate of the controversy between the Church and Liberal parties in Mexico is probably determined. The news we have by the latest arrival announces the failure of the reactionary expedition against Vera Cruz, Gen. Miramon having drawn sufficiently near the heroic city to estimate its means of defence, and then commenced a rapid retreat toward the capital. A large body of Constitutionalists were stationed on that highway to intercept him, and as the forces of the same party were forming a cordon around the City of Mexico, the chances were hardsomely against his ever regaining his metropolis. The fact, added to other recent events, is of the utmost significance. Vera Cruz, the great commercial gate of the Republic, and the main source of legitimate revenue is thus left in the hands of the Liberals. Should any sudden change of fortune enable Miramon to resume the attack—a contingency extremely improbable—the presence of yellow fever would prove even a better safeguard to the place than its walls until the return of another Winter. But before another Winter there is every prospect of the youthful General being thrust from his authority, and, if not replaced by the constitutional President, obliged to make way for some paltry pretender of his own narrow faction. The party of the Church is certainly in a desperate condition. Nearly every important point of the Republic is in possession of the Constitutionalists. Their forces are drawing closely about the City of Mexico. Within the walls of the city there is no garrison, and no means of defence. The last forced loan has alienated the fealty of nearly all the inhabitants. The treasury of the Conservatives can only be replenished by alternate drafts upon the Church treasury and the reluctant moneybags of private citizens; while in the tenancy of the sea-ports, the opposite party can procure the funds required for the contest without recourse to any unpopular measures. And, again, the last stake of the priests was the prestige of Miramon's name—a name recently synonymous with victory, and which was hailed as that of the young soldier of the Church, divinely commissioned to save it from the ruin involved in future decrees of demortization. This prestige he has left at the gates of Vera Cruz. He goes back beaten without having fought a battle, to find his capital, which he absurdly left unprotected, in the power of his adversaries. Altogether, the prospects of the Liberal interest have at no moment since the defection of Comonfort been more gratifying. It is difficult to anticipate any perversity of ingenuity through which the advantages can be lost. And yet the Mexican faculty for blunders is so remarkable, that we can hardly venture to hope for a favorable upshot, even with elements so promising as those referred to.

It is gratifying to know that Mr. McLane has arrived in Mexico precisely at such a crisis. The entire question of the legality and justice of the claim of the Liberal executive to be the legitimate Government of the Republic, depends with Mr. Buchanan, upon the success of its measures against the Conservatives. This demonstration is opportunely supplied; and there is some reason to hope that at last the régime of Señor Juarez shall be recognized.

A Political Movement in Maryland.—On Wednesday last, the American Party of Maryland held a "State Council" in Baltimore, "to make arrangements for the complete organization of the opposition to the present Federal Administration." A large number of Delegates, from all quarters of the State, is represented to have been present.

One of the resolutions adopted by the "Council" invites "the whole body of the conservative Opposition in all the States of the Union" to join in sending Delegates to a National Convention to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President," whose past life, eminent fitness, and unquestionable nationality, shall entitle them to the conservative vote of the whole country"—the Delegates to be charged with such selection as their "sole duty," by which restriction is doubtless meant that the Convention shall abstain from platform-building.

In the abstract, it is likely that little fault can be found, by any branch of the Opposition, with the programme thus laid down. But politicians are a suspicious generation—sometimes with reason, often without,—and thus the Maryland proposition may be held to mean more or less than appears, or differently from what its terms seem to imply. The prompt acceptance of the plan proposed at Baltimore by the chief branch of the Opposition, who may be supposed to have one of their own in view, is hardly to be looked for.

Maryland is the last refuge of the American strength, being the only State which went for Fillmore in 1856, its popular vote at that election standing for Fillmore 47,460, for Buchanan 39,115, for Fremont 281.

Movements like the one above referred to, although not very important in themselves, have yet a bearing upon the course of the Presidential campaign, and go to shape the preparations. The late meeting of the Maryland Council was doubtless designed to influence the conduct of the American Party not only in that State but elsewhere, and it is likely to produce such an effect to a certain extent, at least in this State. The American Party of New-York is far too weak to effect anything by itself, but not quite so small as to be safely overlooked by the leaders of the Opposition. In 1856, as we have already seen, its vote was 124,000, and Fremont fell 44,000 short of a majority; though his plurality was very large.

In 1857, the American vote was (in round numbers) 67,000; in 1858, 61,000. It may be assumed that there will be sixty thousand American votes to be accounted for in 1860. Should the present Legislature smother the Registry Law, it will be nearer 100,000; say 80,000 at the least. In 1857 and 1858, this vote was cast not only against the hope but the possibility of success—in other words, deliberately thrown away. All who could in any way be got to join the Republicans voted for Governor Morgan, to whom they had no special objection, and whom on grounds of State policy they greatly preferred to Judge Parker. Can the Americans be relied upon to throw away their votes in 1860? Possibly; but we would advise no prudent politician to rely upon such an event.

We have adverted to our own State as presenting some of the considerations which must suggest themselves to those who hope to beat the Democratic nominees next year. A similar state of things exists, to a greater or less degree, in other States. Various forces are at work, and the winds blow in different directions. As yet there is time for all this, but, eventually, energies which are now discordant and running to waste must be collected, conciliated and controlled, so as to work in one direction for a common purpose. Whose shall be the delicate and strong hand able to bring about that result?

Mrs. Hartung's Case.

The Evening Post thus speaks of the bill introduced in the State Legislature to commute the sentence of death passed upon Mrs. Hartung:

"But, in the meantime, let the Legislature consider that the question of Mrs. Hartung's guilt or innocence, and the question whether women should be hung or not, constitute no reason at all for the inauguration of such a monstrous and subversive principle as that implied in the bill."

Nothing can be more admirable or praiseworthy than this extreme solicitude lest the sanctities of the Constitution should be, in some minute particular, violated or evaded. The country must certainly be safe when hanging a woman, "whether guilty or innocent," is considered so trifling and unimportant a matter, compared with the possible trespass upon some doubtful provision of the fundamental law. It will probably be regretted, however, by those who look at the subject with impertinent closeness, that the same degree of fastidious veneration for that sacred instrument is not always manifested when party purposes are concerned, as when the question at issue is merely whether a woman shall be hung—whether guilty or innocent. If the State debt is to be increased—if our City Police is to be reorganized, or our charter remodeled, or if a fugitive slave is to be reclaimed, the grumblers who may throw out hints about constitutions, and "monstrous subversions" of them, are dismissed with some degree of contempt, as being much more anxious about forms and petty ceremonies than about human rights and the permanent welfare of the State at large. If Mrs. Hartung were a slave, and about to be hung in a Slave State, without regard to her guilt or innocence—out of deference to the supremacy of the Constitution—we should probably hear from the Post the other side of the story.

The bill before the Legislature, we presume, will not be passed. The session is very near its close—and there is a strong indisposition on the part of the Legislature to interfere with the Governor's exercise of the pardoning power in any special case. But a general law might be passed on this subject which should cover this case, without any invidious reflection upon the Governor's action. A law might be very properly enacted prescribing imprisonment for life instead of hanging, in the case of every woman convicted of murder. We believe the public sentiment of the whole community would approve such a law—and that Governor Morgan would promptly and eagerly give it the sanction of his signature.

Christianizing Africa the Best Way to Stop the Slave-trade.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Ultra Abolitionists maintain that the only way to stop the Slave-trade is to abolish Slavery in the United States. When it is recollected that few or no slaves have been brought to the United States from Africa since 1808, (to public knowledge, at least,) it is hard to see the point of this argument. If they would abolish Slavery in Cuba, Brazil, &c., as well as in the United States, there would be some force in the assertion. The Rev. Dr. Cheever having recently reaffirmed this idea, it is well to say that it is only the diffusion of Christianity in Africa that will stop the Slave-trade effectually, just as the extension of Gospel influences in the South will remove Slavery itself from thence. Cut off the supply at the fountain, and the stream will cease. Teach the natives that agriculture and commerce are better than "stealing and selling" their neighbors, and you at once stop the Slave-trade. Christianize, civilize, and educate the Africans, and you will rescue not only four millions, but one hundred millions from the multiplied evils and woes of Slavery. When this is done Slavery will receive a death-blow all over the world. Meantime, Slavery must be abolished in all the nations to be successful that way. Let us be wise, and spend some of our energies in checking the source of the slave traffic as well as removing the reservoir into which that stream flows. Yours, truly, T. B.

Either plan would accomplish the object, but unfortunately neither of them can be accomplished itself. If the Slave-trade is to be continued until, on the one hand, colonization can so far "Christianize Africa," that there shall be no slaves to be sold,—or until, on the other, Abolitionists shall extinguish Slavery, and thus prevent any slaves from being bought, it will have a tolerably long life. These arguments only show the tenacity with which men cling to their own special hobbies,—and the proneness of everybody to believe that no good can possibly be accomplished except through his party, and by the use of his machinery. The result of such a tendency is that men think more of the means to a good end, than of the end itself:—and they become reconciled to the existence of an evil unless their specific means of curing it come into use. Political parties exist for the good of the country; but there are very few active, zealous party men who are not quite willing to see the welfare of the country postponed until their party shall be charged with the responsible and profitable duty of securing it.

The proper way to stop the Slave-trade is to catch and punish every Slave-trader. If the Government will go resolutely to work in this direction, it can accomplish that end; and it will be found a much shorter road to it than either of the other two proposed.

A Hint for our Minister in Spain.—Mr. Preston, our new Minister at Madrid, seems to have made a favorable impression upon the Spanish Court. They are probably all the more civil to him because they are on the look-out for something which will compel them to be otherwise. So long as he steers clear of the question of acquiring Cuba, he will undoubtedly be treated with marked consideration, and find no difficulty in securing for his country whatever advantages of trade and good neighborhood Spain may have to offer.

We trust Mr. Preston will improve this excellent opportunity to secure some reduction in the present exorbitant tariff which Spain imposes on American produce and manufactures imported into Cuba. In this direction his exertions might be most beneficial to his own country, without affording any cause whatever of offence to Spain. He is in every way qualified to present to the Spanish Government and people the statistics and commercial aspect generally of the Tariff question, in a manner which could scarcely fail to make reform of the fiscal policy in Cuba appear in Spain as desirable as it appears here. The Government of Isabel might readily be convinced by "facts and figures" that a proposition for Tariff reform really meant the national friendship which, when mouthed, in connection with Mr. Buchanan's desire to acquire a Spanish colony, presents itself to Spanish ears only as a diplomatic falsehood. It will be easy for Mr. Preston to prove that Spain would gain in every way, politically and commercially, by a removal of the restrictions which she now maintains upon the trade between Cuba and the United States, and in this direction the American Embassy at Madrid might be made useful to both countries. Such an object, too, would surely be more honorable to us than that which is said to be the chief purpose of Mr. Preston's appointment by the present Executive. The duties levied in Cuba on American wares are not only unjust to the United States, but they are inimical to the amity which should exist between Spain and this country. And it might easily be demonstrated to the understanding even of the most prejudiced Grandee, that the fiscal system in Cuba is much more injurious to the mother country in a pecuniary and political sense than it can possibly be to the people of this Republic.

Wisconsin vs. The Supreme Court.—Some years ago the Supreme Court of the State of Wisconsin declared the Fugitive Slave Law of 1851 unconstitutional, and discharged from the custody of the United States Marshal, and from that of the jailor to which he had been committed, one Sherman M. Booth, a citizen of Milwaukee, who was in custody first under a commitment by a Commissioner of the United States Circuit Court, to answer a complaint, and afterwards upon a commitment of the District Court of the United States, after indictment, trial and conviction. Mr. Booth was at that time the editor of a newspaper called The Free Democrat, from which position he has very recently retired, owing to the finding of an indictment against him for the seduction of a girl of fourteen who was an inmate of his family.

In October, 1855, the United States Supreme Court issued a writ of error commanding the Supreme Court of Wisconsin to send up the record of its proceedings in the case, which writ that Court refused to obey. But the United States Attorney-General managed to obtain certified copies of the proceedings, as also of the written opinions pronounced by the Wisconsin Judges, and thus the case was held to be duly brought before the Supreme Court, which rendered its decision therein on the 7th of last month.

It was held, all the Judges on the Bench concurring, that when a person is in the custody of an officer of the United States, a State may indeed issue a writ of habeas corpus, and the officer holding in custody the person in question must make return to the writ, so far as to show that he holds him under a precept of the United States Court, but no further; and that thereupon the power of the State Court is at an end. Neither the formality nor the validity of the process, nor the constitutionality of the act under which that process issues can, after such return, be inquired into, either upon a writ of habeas corpus from a State tribunal, or upon any other State process. The right of possession of persons or property cannot be inquired into by a State Court by any process which transfers the same from the custody of a United States officer. The Supreme Court, moreover, took occasion to declare unanimously, that the Wisconsin tribunal had erred in its judgment as to the act of 1851, and that said act was constitutional in all its parts.

This decision of the Supreme Court of the United States was not very graciously received by the Legislature of Wisconsin. On the 17th of March ult., that body being in session, passed a series of denunciatory resolutions, in which it characterizes the action of the Court as an "assumption of jurisdiction," "an act of undelegated power," and "without authority, void and of no force." The resolutions in question passed the Wisconsin Senate 13 to 12, and the House of Representatives 47 to 37, reported to have been a strict party vote.

Such questions of jurisdiction between the Supreme Court and State tribunals, are in their nature among the most dangerous which are likely to a rise in the practical working of our Government. In the case referred to, indeed, no serious consequences are to be apprehended; but similar disputes have heretofore been the most disturbing forces our political machinery has been subjected to, and what has already occurred may happen again. The remedy must be looked for in mutual forbearance on the part of the General Government from the exercise of odious and doubtful powers, and on that of the several States by acquiescence where no serious injury can result.

All the attractive artists of Nixon & Co.'s Equestrian Troupe assist, and much auxiliary aid is brought to the rescue. Laura Keene's Theatre.—"Our American Cousin" is again on the bills here. Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" will be produced on Monday next.

Theatre Francais.—To-morrow evening the original of the "Serious Family" will be played here. "Le Mari a la Compagne." Mlle. Lawrence Chevalier and M. Paul Lada sustain the principal characters.

The opera commences to-night. A brief and brilliant season is all that can be expected for the moment. Mme. Gazzaniga, it is understood, will return to Europe after the four performances announced for this week. To night she appears in the "Traviata," the opera wherein she made her début and wherein she is without an equal. Tamaro and Florenza assist in the male characters, and Mr. Anschutz conducts the orchestra. There is the germ of an acceptable excitement in this announcement.

The Hon. Ellis Lewis has resigned his office as a Commissioner to revise the Penal Code of Pennsylvania; the Legislature having refused to grant an extension of time for the revision.

CITY INTELLIGENCE

A New Religious Movement.—Yesterday afternoon, the initial sermon, in connection with a movement which has been set on foot for the establishment of an "Independent Society," having for its object the practice of religion, apart from any specific creed, was preached by the Rev. George F. Noyes, late of Chicago, in Hope Chapel, Broadway. The services commenced with the reading of a part of the 23d Psalm, followed by the reading of a hymn, by the Rev. Mr. Noyes. The Rev. Mr. Longfellow, of Brooklyn, then prayed, after which the 103d Psalm was read. The Rev. Mr. Noyes then commenced his sermon, taking his text from Matthew, 16th chapter, 8th verse: "I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." The Rev. Mr. Longfellow made a few remarks, sympathizing with Mr. Noyes, and the movement he had originated. He was sure his brother had the sympathies of the congregation. He hoped he would be successful, and that the spirit of God would be with him. Mr. Longfellow then offered a prayer, and the service ended with the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Noyes, all allusion to the Trinity being excluded therefrom, as it had been from the preceding prayers.

Funeral of Dr. Louis Szpaczeck.—The funeral services of the late Dr. Louis Szpaczeck were held, at his late residence, yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. The remains were inclosed in a neat mahogany coffin, on which was a plate bearing the name and age (43) of the deceased. After the friends had viewed the corpse, the coffin was placed in a hearse drawn by four horses, to be conveyed to Greenwood Cemetery. The Turners' band headed the procession, and about eighty Turners, in citizens' dress, followed six abreast. Then came the Turner riflemen acting as guard of honor. Besides there was in the procession delegates from the Social Reformers Society, from the Algemeine Arbeiter Band, and from the International Society. The Polish Emigrants were fully represented. There were no services whatever at the house. It was the original intention to have an address in German from Mr. Kapp, and one in English from Julius Allen. These were postponed until the procession reached Fulton Ferry. Messrs. Tomain and Szuva were expected to make brief addresses at the grave. Dr. Szpaczeck leaves a wife and three children, two of them girls and one boy, three, six and eleven years of age respectively. He was born in Dirkly, Galicia, acted as Physician to Kossuth while he was Governor of Hungary, and came with him to this country. He was an ardent Socialist.

Launched.—Smedley & Belmano launched from their yard foot of Court-street, Brooklyn, on Monday last, a small pleasure yacht (propeller) intended for Lake Superior. She is owned by B. H. Clowes, of Brooklyn; is 25 tons, 30 feet long, 9 feet beam, and 7 feet depth of hold; is nine-horse power.

Paradise Square, though in the exact centre of the Five Points, maintained for a long time a green and pleasant appearance. But the wooden railing by which it was surrounded having been completely broken down for the purpose of jubilant bonfires in Cow Bay, it has been converted from a diminutive park into a mass of black mud. Action for its improvement was taken by Mr. Brenes, the Superintendent of Lands and Places, who succeeded in having $2,500 placed in the tax levy towards improvement, but the appropriation has been stricken out at Albany. Paradise Square must, therefore, for the present, remain in its present unsightly condition.

Heavy Wagons for Texas.—Among the shipments this week by the brig Mystic, for Indianola, there are over fifty heavy wagons complete, which are manufactured by a Philadelphia firm and shipped out to Texas, to be used in transporting goods from the coast to the interior towns. The wheels are five feet six inches in diameter, and of great strength. They are to be drawn by mules or oxen, in some cases twenty and thirty animals being employed to draw one wagon; the loads ranging from two to four tons, according to the state of the roads. Some teams are driven a distance of over 200 miles. The tires average about six inches in width, to prevent them from sinking in the soft, springy soil which exists for many miles back from the coast. The natural roads of the interior of Texas, however, are said to be some of the finest in the world.

Heavy Weather and Icebergs.—The Swedish brig Inkerman, from Rotterdam, which arrived on Saturday, reports that they have been three weeks on the coast, with heavy westerly gales, having had a pilot on board for eight days. On the "Banks" they saw a large number of icebergs, and much field ice. The Danish brig Cassandre, from Porto Rico, reports that on April 2, in latitude 33° 20', longitude 73° 32' they fell in with the wreck of the brig Almira, of Thomaston, Me., loaded with white pine lumber, waterlogged, and with masts and boats gone. They hove to with a view of boarding the wreck, but the wind freshening they were prevented. The captain omits to state whether there were any persons seen on board of the wreck. The Almira is a brig about 200 tons register and owned in Thomaston by Mr. Ludwick.

City Mortality.—The City Inspector reports 378 as the number of deaths during the past week; a decrease of 48 as compared with the deaths of the previous week, and 57 less than occurred during the corresponding week of last year. There were 115 deaths from disease of the lungs and throat, and 78 from disease of the brain and nerves. Of the whole number 90 were men; 69 were women; 114 boys and 105 girls. 266 were natives of the United States; 72 of Ireland; 26 of Germany; 8 of England; 2 of Wales; and one each from various other countries.

New Steamers.—Mr. Sneeden, at his ship-yard in Greenpoint, has on the stocks a screw steamer of 220 feet keel, 33 feet breadth of beam, and 23 feet depth of hold, which he is building for Mr. Cromwell's line of propellers between New-York and Savannah. The frame is partly up. He has also the keel of another laid, of the following dimensions: Length of keel, 160 feet; breadth of beam, 28 feet 9 inches; depth of hold, 16 feet. She is intended for Mr. Cromwell, to run between New-York and Washington, D. C.

Death from Poison.—An Irishwoman, about 40 years old, whose name is supposed to be Margaret Degnan, died at the City Prison on Friday from the effects of opium, but whether taken for the purpose of self-destruction or not is unknown. She was brought to the Prison on Wednesday and committed for intoxication. She was in a stupor, and remained so until she died. An inquest was held, when a post-mortem examination showed that opium was the cause of death.

An Old Settler.—The Stuyvesant pear tree, at the corner of the Third-avenue and Thirteenth-street is beginning, perhaps the two-hundredth Spring, to put forth its leaves. It is hollow at the root and partially rotten. Most of its branches have fallen, and some that remain are dead. Nevertheless the mysterious principle of vegetable life animates its venerable form, and continues to crown it from year to year with verdure. Standing in the sidewalk and protected by an iron railing, it is one of the most interesting objects to be seen in our streets.

Lightship Adrift.—The "Sow and Pigs" light vessel, which is stationed near the reef of that name, west of the island of Cuttyhunk, at the entrance to the Vineyard Sound, always breaks adrift when there is a severe northwest gale, her anchorage being upon a naked rocky bottom. Having parted her moorings last week, she was seen by a Pilot-boat on Tuesday, fifteen miles south of No-man's Land, drifting to the southward.

Timely Fall of a Chimney.—On Thursday evening the chimney of a house adjoining the crockery warehouse of Chesman & Co., No. 145 Duane-street, fell with a tremendous crash upon the skylight of the store. Desks, tables, samples of goods, chairs and books were demolished. The porter was locking up the door when the accident occurred. A few minutes previous one of the proprietors and several clerks were at the desks.

Another Fatal Railroad Accident.—James Donnelly, who was employed at the Hudson River Railroad Depôt, corner of Chambers and Hudson streets to assist in loading and unloading freight cars, was killed on Friday morning while at work. A car had just been unloaded, and as he was removing the gang-plank the car started, jammed him between the plank and a post, killing him instantly.

Serious Accident.—Teresa Smith, residing at No. 31 Hamilton-street, while in the kitchen alone on Friday afternoon, had a fit, and fell upon a red-hot stove, and lay there unconscious for some time. When discovered an officer of the Seventh Precinct was called in, and took the young woman to the Hospital. It is unlikely that she will survive her injuries.

Obstructions in the Hudson.—The owners of the steamers New World and Hendrik Hudson, and the other large Albany boats, intend to set the mud-diggers at work in widening and deepening the channel on the bar, as it is almost impossible for the boats to pass at low water.

Sailing of the Kangaroo.—The steamship Kangaroo left this port for Liverpool at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, carrying sixty cabin and one hundred and seventy steerage passengers; she also carried $244,000 in specie.

The New Quarantine Commissioners.—The new Quarantine Commissioners have organized by the election of John C. Green, Chairman. They do not intend taking any definite action as Commissioners, until the new bill shall have become a law.

Schools and Societies.—As early as 1821 the "General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen" obtained from the Legislature of the State, an amendment to their charter, creating under their auspices a school for children of both sexes. A year or two since, the Society, which had waxed fat during many years of prosperity, began to discuss the idea of abandoning their school, in order, perhaps, to have no draft upon their revenues, which amount to some $25,000 per annum, beyond the comparatively small sum expended in the maintenance and increase of a very fair library. After taking legal advice in the premises, it was found that there were duties as well as privileges conferred by their

City; and not to be given up at any rate, if a just pride were entertained by the Society.

The "General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen" is hardly composed in these days of the same material as when first established in 1791. Its present list of members shows that Bank Presidents and merchant princes are the style of mechanics and tradesmen who now control its destinies. The "mechanics" part of its title is now most conspicuous in the goodly number of shares it holds in the Mechanics' Bank, and in the symbolic arm and hammer, its coat of arms, which is displayed—emblem of the Society's proprietorship—on some of the finest lots of real estate in the City, among which is the property at the corner of Park-place and Broadway, which the Society will, perhaps, be willing to part with for some $175,000.

We are glad to know that the Society is not to abandon its schools, which are now known under the name of the "New-York Academy," that for boys having an entrance on Crosby-street, and that for young ladies at No. 472 Broadway. The best teachers and the most thorough instructors in the City are employed, and that, too, at half the cost, or less, of most of the private schools. This can hardly be allowed unreasonable, considering how very large are the revenues of the Society available for the incidental support of their schools.

A SURPRISE.—On Friday evening, upon reaching his house after having attended a religious meeting, the Rev. CHARLES J. JONES, of the Mariner's Church, was "surprised" to find a very large gathering of his parishioners, and other friends, awaiting his arrival. They brought with them sundry presents for his household, including sundry pieces of silver ware for his wife and a well-filled purse for himself,—and testified, by their greetings as well as their gifts, their regard for his personal character and his pastoral services. No clergyman in this City has better earned the warm attachment of those among whom he labors.

AN OLD MAN STONED TO DEATH.—JACOB BERNARD, a German, nearly seventy years old, died on Saturday morning from injuries received by being stoned by some rowdies a few days previous. His son was with him, but escaped injury. Coroner GAMBLE, yesterday, proceeded to his late residence on the Bloomingdale Road, at Sixty-ninth-street, to hold an inquest, but owing to the absence of witnesses, postponed the investigation until to-day. A post-mortem examination of the body by Dr. WELSER showed that a portion of his skull had been fractured. A piece of brick was found imbedded in the skull.

A PHYSICIAN CENSURED.—An inquest was held on Saturday, on the body of JACKSON A. DONELLY, an infant child, who died from asphyxia. The parents reside at No. 118 St. Marks-place. At the confinement of the mother, Dr. HIGGINS, of No. 173 East Fifteenth-street, was called, but left, saying he would get his implements, but failed to return, and it is alleged the child died in consequence. A verdict of censure was rendered by the Jury.

CAUGHT IN MACHINERY.—WILLIAM JOHNSON died yesterday, at the City Hospital, from the effect of injuries received on the 11th ult. He was at work in the Machine Shop of ROBERT MEEKER & BRO., No. 221 West Twenty-sixth-street, when his arm was caught by a belt, carrying him several times around the shaft. An inquest was held, and a verdict of accidental death was rendered.

RUNAWAY HORSES.—On Saturday afternoon, the horses attached to a Third-avenue car broke loose at the corner of Twelfth-street, and ran up the avenue. A boy 6 years old, son of PHILIP SWARTZ, living at No. 108 Third-avenue, was run over and severely injured. A man, in attempting to stop the team, had his left shoulder dislocated. JOHN RUTZ, the driver, was arrested directly after the accident, but was discharged soon afterwards.

FIRE IN GREENWICH-STREET.—The alarm at 7½ o'clock last evening in the Eighth District, was caused by a defect in the flue of the heating apparatus in the tailoring establishment No. 284½ Greenwich-street, occupied by R. RICH. The stock was damaged about $600; insured. The building is owned by a Mr. TAYLOR and damaged about $200; not insured.

RUN OVER BY THE CARS.—A little boy named STEWART HALL, about 7 years of age, was run over by the Hudson River cars about 12 o'clock on Saturday, one of his legs being crushed below the knee. Amputation will be necessary. The boy's parents reside in Franklin-street.

FELL THROUGH A HATCHWAY.—JAMES REARDON, a boy 13 years of age, on Saturday fell through a hatchway at the store, corner of Broadway and Broome-street, sustaining fatal injuries. An inquest was held and a verdict rendered accordingly.

FATAL ACCIDENTS.—PATRICK BURNS died from injuries received from a box falling upon him at Pier No. 2, North River. PATRICK HANNA died, at the Hospital, from a fracture of his leg, which occurred on the 11th ult. Inquests were held, and verdicts rendered accordingly.

FOUND DROWNED.—The body of an unknown man was found drowned, at the foot of Liberty-street, yesterday. He was coarsely dressed, and was, apparently, a 'Longshoreman. The Coroner held an inquest, and a verdict of accidental drowning was rendered.

THE NEW TABERNACLE.—The New Tabernacle Church, at the corner of Broadway and Thirty-fourth-street, will be opened, for Divine Service, on the 24th inst. It contains 312 pews, which afford accommodations for about 1,709 persons.

MR. RICHARD COBDEN VISITING THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—Public School No. 35, in the Fifteenth Ward, was visited, on Friday, by Mr. RICHARD COBDEN, who complimented the scholars upon their appearance and discipline.

RECEIPTS OF TAXES.—The following is the amount of the taxes and interest received by the Receiver from April 1st to April 8th, inclusive. Taxes, $12,409 48; interest, $700 60. Total, $13,110 08.

Police Reports.

AN EXTENSIVE GANG OF RECEIVERS DISCOVERED—SEVERAL ARRESTS AND $3,500 WORTH OF GOODS RECOVERED.—The most important arrests that have been made by the Police for some time were made on Saturday. Ten receivers of stolen goods were arrested in this City and in Hackensack, N. J. The arrested parties all belong to the same gang. Some twenty more are supposed to be associated with them. Their head-quarters were in the Eleventh Ward. The following are the circumstances connected with the discovery of the alleged receivers and their arrests. Captain Squires, of the Eleventh Ward, suspected William Mendlebone, a German living at No. 77 Avenue C, of being a receiver of stolen goods. A few days since, accompanied by some officers, he made a descent on Mendlebone's place, but found nothing out of the way. On Friday night last—an extensive robbery having just been committed in that vicinity—he made a second descent. This time he was more successful, the goods which had just been stolen being found there. Mr. Mendlebone was not at home, but his wife and four persons in the house, giving their names as John Houser, John Ding, Mary Droll and Mary Reich were taken into custody. Following these arrests the Captain ascertained that Mr. Mendlebone received an advance intimation of his previous descent, and that he availed himself of the intimation by packing up what stolen goods were on hand, passing them through a rear window, and having them carted to another locality. One of the prisoners upon being closely questioned, stated that there were others connected with their gang, living in Hackensack, N. J. Two officers were accordingly dispatched to Hackensack with instructions to procure the assistance of Sheriff Beatley of that County, which they did. After looking pretty thoroughly about the town, one house seemed to them to contain persons of rather suspicious bearing. It was determined to resort to stratagem, which proved as successful as it was bold. One of the officers knocked at the door, and, being admitted, announced himself as a messenger rom Mr. Mendlebone. Unfolding the late descent on Mr. M.'s house in New-York, he stated that officers were then on the way to Hackensack, and that Mr. M. had sent word to pack immediately all the goods they had on hand and get them on to Philadelphia forthwith. The story was believed, and the packing was entered upon instantly. In half an hour $3,500 worth of uncut silks, velvets and other costly goods were packed, the Philadelphia direction painted on the boxes, and carmen ready to convey them to the railroad depôt. At this crisis the goods were seized and the victims of the strategem, five in number, arrested. The prisoners gave their names as Frederick Rediger, Christian Rediger, John Vecott, Michael Droll and Elizabeth Levick. They were lodged in the jail at that place, and the goods left in charge of Sheriff Beatley. From most of the goods the marks have been removed, and it will be difficult therefore to identify them. There is very little doubt that they are the proceeds mainly of burglaries committed in this City. The five parties arrested in Avenue C were yesterday taken before Justice GREEN, at the Essex Market Police Court, and committed for trial. Mendlebone has not yet been found, and the belief is that he has fled from the City.

RUNNING AWAY WITH ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE AND GOODS.—Ferdinand Schape was proprietor of a drinking saloon, at the corner of Bayard street and the Bowery. He had a wife Barbetta, who is only about half his age, and enjoyed implicitly his confidence. On Saturday, Schape returned to the City from a brief visit into New-Jersey, and found the saloon was shut up, and the fixtures and bar-tender gone. A further look, and he discovered that the apartments he and his wife had occupied had been vacated, carpets, mirrors and everything had gone, including Barbetta. A brief inquiry developed the fact that the household furniture had been sold at auction, and that Barbetta had gone away with a man named Henry Young. Schape was anxious to recover his bar and household fixtures, $300 in money, a gold watch and chain, jewelry and clothing of $500 aggregate value. He made a complaint before Justice OSBORNE, which led to the arrest of the parties and their commitment yesterday for examination.

A FEMALE BURGLAR.—About 2 o'clock on Friday morning Mr. John B. Brady, who lives at No. 229 Division-street, heard strange footsteps about the, house. Jumping out of bed he instituted a search for the intruder, and to his utter astonishment discovered a woman. He seized her just as she was going out of the street door. She made desperate efforts to get away, but he held her till a policeman came up. The gold watch of Mr. Brady which she had just stolen, some jewelry and clothing worth altogether $150, were found in her possession, as also a bunch of skeleton keys. She frankly confessed that she entered the house for the purpose of robbery and begged hard to be let off, saying that her name was Mary Warren, that she was married and had a husband and three children living at No. 128 Norfolk-street. She was taken to the Seventh Ward Station House, and committed for trial by Justice BOSEMAN.

INFATUATED CLERK.—James Brookhan, who has been employed as a clerk in the store of Messrs. Lathrop and Luddington, No. 23 Park-place, was arrested on Saturday, charged with embezzling $600 worth of goods belonging to his employers. He proved to have been infatuated with a girl named Caroline Ruckman, who tends bar at "The Parlor," a drinking saloon in Broadway near Howard-street. He had presented all the embezzled goods to her, and most of the missing articles were found in her possession. The girl was arrested and both were committed to the Tombs for trial. She was arrested some time since on a charge of having killed an infant of hers in Troy, was taken there and tried, but the charge was not proven.

HEAVY ROBBERY—$112,000 OF RAILROAD BONDS AND CHECKS STOLEN.—On Saturday the safe of Butterworth D. Bond, President and Cashier of the Allentown Railroad Company, whose office is in Wall-street, was broken open and $112,000 of railroad bonds and checks stolen, besides $2,000 worth of diamond jewelry. John G. McManny, a boy only 14 years old, who was employed as clerk by Mr. Bond, was arrested on suspicion. He confessed having stolen the bonds and checks, but denied knowing anything about the missing jewelry. He showed where he had hid the bonds and checks, and they were recovered. Justice CONNOLLY committed him to the City Prison to await examination.

ALLEGED DEADLEY ASSAULT ON AN OFFICER.—Last evening a man named Tim Casey attempted to gain an entrance into the premises No. 67 Leonard-street. The occupants of the house refused to admit Casey, when he kicked in a panel of the door and was about going in, when Officer Hawbelt, of the Fifth Ward, came up and attempted to arrest him. Casey, it is alleged, resisted the officer; drew a dagger and was about making a lunge at him when he was disarmed by a blow from the locust of the policeman, taken to the Station-house and locked up.

ESCAPED CONVICTS.—James Nugent and Patrick Kelly, two escaped convicts from the Penitentiary on Blackwell's Island, were arrested on Saturday. Justice CONNOLLY, before whom they were taken, ordered their recommitment to their old quarters.

GENTS—In justice to the merit and virtue of Herring's Patent Fire Proof Safes, we would inform you that on the 31st day of January last, our warehouse, wharf and store, were entirely destroyed by fire.
Fortunately we had our principal books, papers and a large amount of money secured in one of your Safes, which, although it was exposed to the most intense heat for upwards of five hours, surrounded by the most fierce and consuming fire, and putting your Safe to the most severe test as to its fire-proof qualities, we are happy to say it proved itself worthy of the highest recommendation. Our books, papers, &c., which it contained, were preserved uninjured.
We gladly and gratefully tender our testimonial to the many already published, toward giving the Herring Safe the credit and confidence it truly merits. Very respectfully, TEASEDALE & REID.

Spring Season,
1859.
ROGERS & RAYMOND'S
Opening Circular
to all
Buyers of Clothing.
We open the Spring season of 1859 with a stock of clothing far exceeding in extent, variety and elegance that of any former year. We also claim the merit of having stocked our cloth-rooms with the best goods in the market, at a time when prices ranged from 20 to 30 per cent, under the present average. The extensive and fashionable assortment of every description of Spring clothing for men and boys, to which we invite the attention of the public.
UNPARALLELED CHEAPNESS,
COULD NOT BE REPLACED
at the rates at which we now offer them to retail purchasers. Among our new and brilliant styles for outdoor wear the LONDON CLOAK,
an original and exquisitely becoming Spring over-garment, is especially attractive; while the extraordinary variety of our business, traveling and full dress clothing offers the widest possible field of choice for all tastes, all occupations and all professions. In
BOYS' CLOTHING
we have introduced a large number of new Paris and home-designed patterns, and our ORDER DEPARTMENT
is stocked with superior goods, which are cut and made to measure, by the best artists, at the most moderate rates.
ONE PRICE, AND ONE ONLY, is still our motto, and to every article the lowest figure that can be taken is conspicuously affixed.
ROGERS & RAYMOND,
Corner of Fulton and Nassau sts.

A Card.
We open the Spring and Summer Retail Trade with a Stock of ready-made Men's and Boys' Clothing, which is already attracting great attention on account of the large variety and extent of the many new and desirable styles of garments we have this season manufactured, and the very moderate prices at which we have marked them down.
Our Merchant Tailoring Department is supplied with an unusual variety of specialties in coatings, vestings, and trowserings, selected with great taste and care in the several European and home markets.
The demand for our well-known styles of Clothing from all sections of the United States has more than doubled our trade this Spring over any previous season. This in the face of so much competition is accounted for in the fact that the manufacture and selection of fabrics of our Clothing are very different, and far superior in style to that of any house in the trade, and our prices fair and moderate. Our aim is to produce the best article of its kind that can be got up for the money, both in fine and low-priced clothing. With this view—as is well known—we employ none but the best talent, and at liberal salaries, in every branch of our manufacture; and we are not afraid to state that we pay a percentage more for making each garment than any house in the trade.
This article, added to the cost of labor, as every consumer soon finds out, adds a large per centage to the real value of the garment. Indeed, it is one of the secrets of the great success of our system.
We respectfully invite an early call from our friends, that they may have a choice selection from the newest things.
D. DEVLIN & CO.,
Nos. 258, 260, 260, Broadway.
We have largely added to our Shirt and Furnishing Goods manufacture this season. We beg special attention to the same.

Catarrh! Catarrh! Catarrh!
CATARRH. WHAT IS IT? HOW CURED?
Thousands of persons suffer all sorts of annoyance from Catarrh. Most people know what its inconvenience and results are, yet but few know how it can be cured. It is simply a chronic irritation and after enlargement of follicles, and consequent thickening of the mucous membrane, lining the nasal cavities, fronted sinuses and posterior nares and sometimes extending into the throat and lungs. From this results tightness and often vertigo of the head, obstructed nose or profuse flow of mucus, loss of smell, nasal voice, and often impaired hearing and taste. The old-school remedies have never been able to do anything for it. Nasal injections and inhalations are as painful and expensive as they are generally worthless, yet HUMPHREYS' CATARRH SPECIFIC, a simple SUGAR PILL taken two or three times per day, promptly relieves the milder cases, cures at once all colds in the head, and radically cures by perseveringly use the most obstinate cases, as is proved by the experience of hundreds.
Price, with full directions, &c.....50 cents per box
N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREYS' HOMŒOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions and 20 Remedies, in large Ebrachin vials and morocco case, $5; ditto in plain case, $4; family case of 15 boxes and book, $2.
The Remedies, by the single box or full case, sent to any address by mail or express, free of charge, on receipt of the price. Address F. HUMPHREYS & CO.,

CONSUMPTION IS CURABLE!
BY THE USE OF
Winchester's Genuine Preparation of Dr. J. F. Churchill's Compound of the HYPOPHOSPHITES
OF LIME, SODA AND POTASH,
Originally discovered and prescribed by him as a Specific Remedy for CONSUMPTION!
This extraordinary Chemical Preparation of Phosphorus, the Discovery of Dr. Churchill, of Paris, is put up by the undersigned CHEMICALLY PURE, IN STRICT ACCORDANCE WITH HIS FORMULA, AND MAY BE PERFECTLY RELIED ON. The bottles have the following words BLOWN IN THE GLASS, as an additional protection to the public:
"DR. J. F. CHURCHILL'S HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME, SODA AND POTASH, A SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION. J. WINCHESTER, NEW-YORK."
The use of the HYPOPHOSPHITES in CONSUMPTION, Scrofula, Nervous Debility, Asthma, Bronchitis, Dyspepsia, Female Complaints and all diseases depending upon A DEFICIENT VITALITY IN THE ELEMENTS OF THE BLOOD, has proved their INVARIABLE EFFICACY in thousands of cases in Europe and America, and established the claim of the Discoverer, that they are a SURE PREVENTIVE, and a SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION.
Dr. Churchill says:
"IN NO SINGLE INSTANCE HAVE I FOUND THE REMEDY FAIL TO PRODUCE EVERYTHING THAT COULD REASONABLY BE EXPECTED FROM IT. In most instances the benefit derived from it has FAR EXCEEDED what could, at first, have been hoped for, WHEN TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT THE DEGREE AND EXTENT OF THE INJURY SUSTAINED BY THE LUNGS PREVIOUSLY TO THE USE OF THE REMEDY. * * * * * Out of twenty-two cases in the third or last stage, treated at my Dispensary during the past year, EIGHT HAVE COMPLETELY RECOVERED, eight have died, and six are still under treatment. SUCH A RESULT IS ALTOGETHER UNPARALLELED IN THE ANNALS OF MEDICINE."
TERRIBLE MORTALITY OF CONSUMPTION!
Dr. Churchill again says;
"The time will come when Consumption, instead of slaying, as it now does, ONE-SIXTH OF THE WHOLE HUMAN RACE, and more than ONE-HALF OF ALL THE ADULT POPULATION of most civilized communities, WILL DWINDLE DOWN TO AN INSIGNIFICANT ITEM IN THE CAUSES OF MORTALITY.
I am anxious that the HYPOPHOSPHITES should be brought, AS SPEEDILY AS POSSIBLE, into UNIVERSAL USE, as I KNOW that they will prove not only AS SURE A REMEDY IN CONSUMPTION AS QUININE IS IN INTERMITTENT FEVER, BUT ALSO AS EFFECTUAL A PRESERVATIVE AS VACCINATION IN SMALL POX.
It is of the utmost importance that this REMEDY be prescribed in its purest state, for unless it be so, it is not only USELESS BUT DANGEROUS!
Especially if there be any IRON, FREE LIME, CARBONATE OF SODA, &c., &c., contained in it, as is the case in a great majority of the Salts sold as Hypophosphites. Dr. Churchill says: "NO OTHER DRUG OR MEDICINE SHOULD BE COMBINED WITH THEM, OR TAKEN AT THE SAME TIME."
Be sure to purchase Winchester's Genuine Preparation, which is certified by Dr. James R. Chilton, to be "PROPERLY MADE and CHEMICALLY PURE." My fac simile signature is upon every bottle.
☞ Price $2 per bottle, or three bottles for $5, with full directions for use. Write for circulars, which will give RELIABLE INFORMATION and save from all possibility of deception. Sold wholesale at the LOWEST DISCOUNT FOR CASH, at the sole General Depôt in the United States, by

HUNDREDS OF THE UNFORTUNATE are disappointed of a cure by not calling on DR. HUNTER at first, the Hunterian Dispensar, No. 3 Division-st., New-York City. Established in 1834, for the Preservation of Human Life. PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—Dr. HUNTER has for thirty years confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated not less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; it roots out the poisonous taint the blood is sure to absorb unless this remedy is used. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for nothing, that treats of the evil effects of early abuse and indulgence, is embellished with elaborate colored engravings, portraying every feature and phase of disease, exposes the fallacy of the ordinary modes adopted for the cure of local as well as hereditary maladies, and gives the only safe and infallible remedy for expunging every trace of the virus from the system.

Important Decision in Admiralty.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—APRIL 9.

Before Judge Betts.

JURISDICTION—WHARFAGE—SUPREME COURT RULE.

Richard Squires vs. The steamboat Charlotte Vanderbilt.—The libel was filed in this cause to recover $192 49 for wharfage, alleging that the steamboat "belonging to the port of New-York for some time past has been and now is lying in the port of New-York, and the said libelant has during that time furnished a berth for said steamboat to lie at one of the wharves of the said City, the wharfage whereof amounts to $192 49, and that said wharfage was necessary for said steamboat."

The claimant appeared in the action, but a default was entered against her for failing to answer. The claimant's proctor applied on the pleadings, and an affidavit for an order setting aside the libelant's proceedings, and for the dismissal of the libel as not within the jurisdiction of the Court.

By the Court—The libel is palpably inadequate and irregular in particulars of form vital to its maintenance in this Court. It does not aver any right of property in, or trust, or authority in respect to the berth occupied by the vessel in this harbor or the wharfage supposed to have accrued from such occupation, nor agency or authority from which his right to demand or collect the money if due may be implied. Nor is the frame of the libel in conformity to the positive requirements of the rules of Court. (Sup. Court, Ad., Rule 23.)

These imperfections may be cured by amendment on proper causes and excuses shown the Court for the irregularity in pleading, and, therefore, if there was a color of right to the remedy sought by the action, the Court would relieve the party from the consequences of his faults in pleading upon terms that are equitable between the parties.

But the decisions rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States at its last session, (December term, 1858,) have settled the rule of law that actions of the character of the present one are not within the Admiralty jurisdiction of the Court, (Rufus Allen et al. vs. H. L. Newbery; Thomas McGuire vs. Stephen Card,) and, accordingly, no ratification of the informalities of the pleading can avail the libelant to any serviceable end. He has brought his suit before a tribunal incompetent to take cognizance of the subject matter.

The vitality of those decisions must also counteract and displace all value in any permissive grant of authority to the Admiralty Courts to take cognizance of that subject, it such power be deducible from the 12th rule in Admiralty; as a regulation out of the competency of that Court to make cannot avail in law any more for a qualified period than absolutely and without limitation. The solemn adjudication of the Supreme Court having now determined that the Admiralty tribunals never were clothed with the legal right to take cognizance of questions of liens or contracts of affreightment, or for supplies furnished a vessel in her home port, while engaged in the purely internal commerce of the State where she belongs, it cannot be maintained that a mistaken sanction of the exercise of such authority in a rule of Court, can be made available or effective in opposition to such solemn judgments.

It is accordingly ordered that the further prosecution of this action be perpetually stayed, and that the claimant and her sureties in the suit be discharged therefrom, with costs.

For libelant, Mr. Andrews; for claimant, Messrs. Beebe, Dean & Donohue.

Decision in Equity.

UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT—APRIL 9.

Judge HALL has sent down his decision in the following case, heard before him in March last.

PATENT FOR CANDLE MOULDING—NOVELTY.

John Stainthorpe, et al., vs. Willis Henniston.—This was a bill filed to obtain an injunction and an account for an alleged infringement by the defendant of a patent issued to the complainant, March 6, 1855, for an improvement in machines for making candles. The defendant, who is a manufacturer of candle-moulding machines, claimed under three patents issued to himself for improvements in the machinery.

Held by the Court—That on the evidence there was no infringement of the second claim of the complainant's patent.

That the defence of want of novelty set up in reference to the first claim is not made out; that invention was required to produce the organization and device covered by the claim, and that the defendant has infringed the plaintiff's patent.

Decree, therefore, for the complainants.

For complainants, Mr. Gifford and Mr. Harding; for respondent, Mr. Keller.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT

Before Commissioner Morton.

Alleged Murder on the High Seas.—John G Woods master, and George A. Williams mate, of the bark Harmon, of Harpswell, Maine, were, on Thursday, arraigned before United States Commissioner MORTON, charged with the murder of a German sailor named George Varmes. Edward Franklin, a sailor on board, and one of the witnesses for the prosecution, swore that, while on the passage from Cardenas to New-York, on the 26th of March, Varmes was at the wheel, but owing to a heavy sea, did not steer straight, at which the captain cursed him. Varmes, while listening to the captain let go the wheel, causing the spanker to jibe. The captain caught the man by the throat, when he, letting go of the wheel, put his arm around the captain, and threw him on the deck. The mate came aft and pulled Varmes off, who thereupon ran forward to the forecastle, and armed himself with a marlin spike. The captain armed himself with a pistol, and threatened to shoot him unless he allowed himself to be put in irons. Franklin persuaded him to submit, and after some talk, being assured that nothing more should done, he allowed himself to be ironed. He was then taken aft and placed between the half deck where ropes are stowed. The next morning the captain was at the wheel while the whole of the crew were wearing ship. He saw Varmes run out of the cabin, go forward and into the forecastle—still ironed. The captain and mate went forward, said the witness, and I saw them soon after coming aft with the man, the mate had a rope about the man's neck and pulling, while the captain was pushing him from behind. When they got pretty near amidships, while they were on the deck load, which was even with the ship's rail, the man braced himself against a spar which was lashed to the rail, and held back. The vessel was rolling, there being a heavy sea on. Just then the bark gave a lurch, and the man pitched overboard, his head slipping out from the rope, which was left in the mate's hands. We threw bits of plank and ropes, but he was unable to take them, on account of his hands having cuffs on. He dropped astern, and in a few minutes we saw him turn over and go down. The sea was running quite heavy at the time. There was no order given to 'bout ship. We attempted to let down the boat, but couldn't get it down before the man sank. When Varmes ran forward, that morning, to the forecastle, in irons, I saw that his face was badly cut and bruised, and badly swollen about the mouth. I had noticed that when he was put in irons, the day before, he had no marks on his face, and during the night we heard cries proceeding from the place where he was kept, as if he was being beaten.

Another witness for the prosecution, Andrew Johnson by name, testified to seeing the man fall over; that he went with the lurch of the vessel, and that the Captain was some eight or ten feet from him at the time he fell; that one of the ropes he threw him hit him upon his head, but he could'nt take it on account of his being handcuffed.

William B. Leavitt, second mate, was examined for the defence and testified that he jumped into the boat which hung at the davits, to cut it away; while he was cutting the alarm was given that the man had already sunk; he then gave it up, and came on deck; there was no order given to heave the ship to, and he didn't know who gave the order, if any was given, to lower the boat.

The Commissioner said that the prosecution had failed to make out a case of willful murder, and asked the Assistant District-Attorney what he had to say about it. Mr. Dwight claimed that the parties should be held, if not for murder, for manslaughter, at least, because as master and mate of the vessel they had not used every means in their power to save the man's life; that the ship was not ordered to be shove to, nor was the boat really lowered, and search made where the man was seen to sink; that for this neglect they were culpable, whether they were to blame for the man's going overboard or not.

Mr. Morton did not regard the matter in this light, and discharged the defendants.

It is understood that the District-Attorney will send the case to the Grand Jury.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

SINGULAR CHARGES AGAINST A LAWYER—SPICY CORRESPONDENCE—REMARKABLE DISCLOSURES OF A PRIVATE JOURNAL.

Before Justice Davies.

Auguste F. Brandt vs. Horatio C. Averill—Albert Bergen et al. vs. the Same.—John D. Lewis et al. vs. the Same.—This is a motion, argued day before yesterday, to vacate orders of arrest made in these three actions, on which defendant is detained in custody.

Averill was a lawyer, lately in practice in this City, of the firm of Hayner & Averill. According to the allegations of the affidavits on which the orders of arrest were made, he became embarrassed in his pecuniary affairs, until, in January, 1859, he had parted with all his property except his personal wardrobe, while his debts amounted to about $5,000. About the 8th of January, 1859, he procured various parties to cash checks drawn by him on various banks in the City, representing that he had money in the bank to meet them. He obtained in this way nearly $800. His design in doing so was to put himself in funds to go to California. On Monday, January 10, he left the City under a false name. He first went to Troy, thence returned to Jersey City, where he put up at the American Hotel under the name of F. H. Livingston. From thence he went, in a day or two, to Philadelphia, under the same assumed name, and from there went on his way to New-Orleans and California as far as Charleston. Here he was arrested on a criminal charge. He afterwards returned to New-York, and was there rearrested on a criminal charge, and after examination was fully committed. The affidavits charged that the defendant had obtained money from the plaintiffs with intent to defraud them, and also that he had left the State with like intent.

In the affidavits on which defendant moves to vacate the arrests, he denies having made the representations charged as to having funds in bank to meet the checks, or that he intended any fraud in obtaining the moneys on them. He also denies that he left the City secretly, or that he traveled under a false name, except that he twice used the name "F. H. Livingston," but without intending any fraud; and he alleges that he went for the purpose of raising money to pay his debts, and that before leaving he wrote to several of his creditors, telling them he was going, and where. He says that he went to Troy, to obtain pecuniary aid from friends residing there; but failing in this, he went on to Washington, with the same purpose. There he stayed several days, and was admitted to the Supreme Court; and this fact was published in the papers. His friends in Washington advised him to go to San Francisco, and gave him assurances of a business support there, which he concluded to accept. He accordingly wrote back to his creditors in New-York, telling them he was going, and asking them to send their claims out to San Francisco. He then went on to Charleston, S. C., and spent a few days in visiting Governor Aiken who resides near that city, before proceeding to California. Returning to Charleston he was arrested by the agency of John Livingston, the attorney of the plaintiffs. This arrest, he charges, was without legal right or foundation, and was procured by Livingston by means of false statements, and collusion with the officers of justice; and was employed by Livingston merely as a means to coerce the defendant into a settlement of the demands against defendant; one of which demands, to the amount of about $100, was held by Livingston, himself. He further alleges that while he was under arrest at Charleston, he was induced to make a settlement of the claims prosecuted by Livingston, which settlement he understood to cover, and did cover the claims embraced in these suits. On this he was released and returned to New-York, believing that he could not be further molested but on arriving here, he was again arrested. He also charges the plaintiff's attorney, Mr. Livingston, with harsh and unfair practice towards him, and alleges that one of the motives of Livingston in prosecuting the claims is to injure him in the estimation of certain of his friends, and in particular of a young lady, whom both defendant and Livingston met at Saratoga Springs last Summer, and to whom he alleges Livingston has written a letter defaming defendant, and threatening to send him to State Prison.

To rebut these allegations, and to sustain their orders of arrest, the plaintiffs read a number of new papers. They put in first the record of the complaints and examination of the defendant before Justice Welsh, of this City, on the criminal charges against him. Those charges were in part based on the same transactions as those on which these suits are brought, and the proofs taken on the examination are relied on as corroborating the statements of the original affidavits of plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs also put in the affidavit of John Livingston, the attorney of plaintiffs, in which he reasserts the facts charged as fraudulent upon Averill. He gives a full narrative of all the proceedings instituted by him for the apprehension of the defendant, and fully denies the charges of unfair practice, and also denies that he entered into any settlements or compromises with defendant which were intended to preclude the plaintiffs from prosecuting the defendant for the balances of their demands remaining unpaid. He explains the circumstance of his writing to the lady mentioned in Averill's affidavit, by showing that the lady had, some time previous, informed him that Averill was a suitor for her hand, and had asked him (Livingston) what was Averill's character, and he, for want of correct information, had recommended Averill; but, after Averill's absconding, he deemed it his duty to write to the lady apprising her of some of the facts.

The plaintiff further put in evidence a large number of letters, written by and to the defendant, between the time of his leaving New-York and his return, and also his private journal. These papers were found in his trunk, which was searched on his arrest; and are relied on as showing clearly that the defendant was guilty of deliberate and intentional fraud, and that in leaving the City he intended to abscond in fraud of his creditors, instead of designing to return. He gave some extracts from the letters (there are eighteen in all) and the journal, bearing on these questions.

From Letter No. 2—W. T. Van Riper, said to be Averill's confidential adviser, to Averill.

JANUARY 10, 1859.

DEAR AVERILL: Verily a whirlwind has passed over the City. The first note of alarm was from Hayner; about as soon as he got into the office. "The Register is gone! Where the devil is Averill?" * * * * * * I could not get to the Harlem Railroad Depôt in time to see you. Be very discreet and careful Tear the H. F. A. off your trunks right away. I will be at Philadelphia Thursday night. * * * * * * * * *

Faithfully, V.

From No. 7—Van Riper to Averill.

JERSEY CITY—6 P. M.

DEAR AVERILL: Sluyter is just the maddest man that is at present in the land of the living, and says he is determined to stop you.

Hayner is going (he says) to Troy to-morrow on the same amicable errand. Hayner thinks you have gone to Minnesota. * * * * * * * * *

I have seen your sister at No. 206. She will no doubt act very discreetly, but I did not tell her where you were, or what was your new name.

Keep out of the streets. VAN.

From No. 10—Averill to Van Riper.

THE PETER TAVERN—9½ P. M., } Philadelphia, Jan. 13, '59.

DEAR VAN: I got in safely at 3½ o'clock and found your three letters for Mr. A. At supper, a young blood from the Empire City nodded very familiarly, but I returned it very coldly; and as he was about three-quarters sprung, I felt sure of being able to bluff, if he came the familiar. I put out as soon as possible * * * and have returned with an investment of pen and inkery, and a camels'-hair brush, you'd say, for that matter, but the lore of things I have taken up the art of painting, and made the defacement of certain letters—my maiden effort—and I may say that I have entirely succeeded. I saw on the cars a friend of ours—Kingsley, of the Howard—but preserved a cold insifference. * * * I shall leave at 11 (this) P. M., unless unceremoniously stopped. It will be the out train, of course,—and I can almost picture before me, even now, several ghosts and hobgoblins, night mares, and the rattling of bars and bolts. I expect to see them all in a dream.

I have just thought it would be a good idea to inclose you a note dated Buffalo, and you can say that you thoughtlessly tore up the envelope. * * * * * * * *

Most truly yours, HORATIO.

From No. 11—Averill to Van Riper.

WILLARD'S HOTEL, Washington, } Jan. 14, 1859—11½ P. M., }

DEAR VAN: I got here this morning at 6½. I saw no brass star shedding its effulgent beams upon my countenance on arrival. I have not been saluted with an official grip or the locust up to the present hour. I feel comparatively safe, but under great restraint, because I know so many people. * * * I booked myself, as I think, very ingeniously, thus: "h. f. Overill." The proprietor asked if I ignored capitals, and I told him they were so very common. I then spelled and pronounced the name for him, and he put the same in his ledger before it got cold. * * * * * * * *

From No. 15—Averill to Van Riper.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 19, 1859.

DEAR VAN: I got in here this morning at 9 o'clock. * * * * * Gov. Aikin is out on his plantation at Jehosee, and I go there in the morning. He is said to be worth one and a half millions, and has only one child, a daughter. Perhaps I shall take stock, and send on a good fat nigger to my creditors. I only write this to let you know my whereabouts.

[The following is the entry in the journal narrating Averill's dealings with the plaintiffs and others on Jan. 8. It should be premised, that in the entries, the writer relates a consultation between himself and Van Riper, at which it was determined that Averill was hopelessly embarrassed, and that he should go to California; also, another conversation between Averill and his sister, in which he apprised her of his intention to go.]

SATURDAY, Jan. 8, 1859.

Got down town about 10. Went to the Howard, and sent for Van Riper. * * * * I had $282 to pay on the Gregory place to-day, to save that, and wanted $500 for myself to start with. I first went up to the Nassau Bank and took up the kite, then to J. H. Martin's and borrowed $100 on check dated Monday, the 10th, of H. F. A., (Horatio F. Averill,) $135 of Lewis Haviland & Co, on H. & A.'s (Hayner & Averill's) check, dated 10th $120 of Corbin, on my check dated 10th; $100 of John; Livingston, on my check dated 10th inst.; $200 of Brandt, on my check dated to-day; $100 of Brown, on my check dated 10th instant, making in all $760 50. I then paid the draft for $282 54. I tried Knapp and Peck on a loan and also M. S. Friend, but they did not have any to spare. I believe these were all I tried. I certainly was very successful, as every one seemed ready to oblige me. It was devilish hard to borrow in this way, but they are all able to stand it. About 5 P. M. Van Riper came over, and I told him what I had accomplished. He seemed to laugh with a sort of fiendish smile, as though he was to have some good pickings out of what I was going to leave behind; but he is a friend of mine after all, and I could not do without him. As soon as it was dark enough we emerged from the hotel and went down in the basement to get a couple of trunks. * * * * * I gave Van my two checks, one for $120, dated the 10th, and one for $250, dated 16th, and took his receipt that they were not to be drawn or negotiated and were only intended as a flyer, so that he could say that he had lost something by me, and thus not appear to be in my confidence."

On all the papers on both sides it appeared to the Court that the question of intent to defraud was involved in too great a conflict of testimony to be determined on motion; and a reference was therefore ordered to the Hon. Lucien Birdseye to take further proofs and examine the parties, and report the evidence and his opinion.

This morning Averill was brought up on habeas corpus before Justice Strong, to obtain his discharge from custody on the criminal complaint above referred to; and the Justice being of opinion that there was not ground for holding him, ordered his discharge.

East River Bank vs. John W. Vosburgh et al.—Demurrer allowed on terms.

Hiram A. Briggs et al. vs. John Clapp, Jr.—Demurrer overruled, with liberty to defendant to answer within fifteen days, on payment of costs.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge Hilton.

Edwin Forrest vs. Nathaniel P. Willis.—This is an action for libel. It has been already once tried five years ago, when the jury disagreed. It was brought on again to-day.

After some discussion between counsel as to who had the right to open and close, that privilege was at last accorded by the Judge to Mr. Van Buren, the counsel for plaintiff. He commenced his address to the jury by referring to the widespread celebrity of both the plaintiff and defendant, which was important to be taken into view in considering how much evil his writings could inflict. He then described the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest, and their domestic felicity prior to May 20, 1848, and narrated the subsequent difficulties between them, all which are familiar to the public, down to the application for a divorce, in Pennsylvania, in connection with which a commission was issued, and this document was published in the New-York Herald, and otherwise. Upon this publication arose the article in the Home Journal, Mr. Willis' paper, on which this action was brought. It was an article which tended to degrade and disgrace the plaintiff—to represent him as a man well satisfied of his wife's innocence, but so base as to desire to use any means to gain his ends.

This article, he continued, drew upon Mr. Willis the chastisement which, in the counsel's opinion, it richly deserved; and this was followed by an action for assault and battery, resulting in a verdict of $3,800. On that trial the Court refused to permit the libel to be offered, saying it was matter for a separate trial. For this reason was the action maintained separately. He then defined the rights of the defendant as being two-fold. One was to attack Mr. Forrest's character—another to show the truth of the article.

Mr. Van Buren then said that he would read those parts of the libel of which he complained.

Mr. Girard objected. He said the whole must be read.

The Court decided that the plaintiff might read such portions as seemed to him to sustain his action.

Mr. Van Buren read parts of the article. It contained a general critique upon Mr. Forrest's character as to gentlemanly manners, referred to his prominent position and the necessity for inquiring into his actions, to prevent others from placing on his level the standard of American gentility. It then specifically charged him with causing the testimony against his wife to be printed and circulated, and remarks: "To show the unworthy baseness of the weapons employed by Mr. Forrest to bring about his divorce, we will leave its details," &c. Then, after charging him with manufacturing anonymous letters, it continued: "The quiet baseness with which Mr. Forrest turns the baronial hospitality of his house to account, is not the least surprising weapon to be used by a 'lord of a castle.'"

It further charged him with encouraging his servants to call visitors, &c., by low and vile names; it referred to the Consuelo letter and the mildness of Mrs. Forrest's answer to her knowledge of the existence of a key fitting her drawer. It related an anecdote to show his depravity—his going a second time to a Phrenologist and having a chart made out "to suit himself," and finished by charging that he knew her purity, but desired to get rid of her, and therefore charged her with a criminal offense.

Testimony was then taken down to the time of adjournment. The examination related however to the familiar facts of the divorce suit. Nothing was elicited which is not already familiar to the public.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before the Hon. Recorder Barnard.

There were no trials in this Court on Saturday. John Mansfield, who pleaded guilty, on Monday, to an attempt at grand larceny, was sentenced to one year in the Penitentiary. In the case of Antonio Ferrino and Josefo Vonvossi, the Italians who were convicted of an assault on Police Officer Wilsey, in Baxter-street, Ferrino was sent to the Penitentiary for three months, while judgment was suspended on Vonvossi. Nicholas Damascus was sentenced to eight months in the Penitentiary for an assault on Cornelius Jordan.

MONDAY, April 11—A. M.

The Import trade for the past week was quite heavy. The activity at the Custom-house is in marked contrast with the business of last Spring. The entries of the week, including the Dry Goods table in our last paper, amount to $6,227,229, as against $2,153,549 the corresponding week in April, '58. The Export list is also heavier than usual, owing in part to the free movement of Cotton. The clearances of Domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods amount to $1,677,678, against $1,207,889 same week last season. The Export of Specie to Liverpool is $494,000 by the Alps on Thursday and the Kangaroo on Saturday. Same week last season $256,246. The Specie balance in the Sub-Treasury is reduced $584,321, the present total standing $7,232,459, against $7,816,780 at the close of the previous week. This difference more than supplies the outgo to England, but as the last Bank average was a falling one, and but partially embraced the shipment to France on Saturday week of $848,000, the calculation is that on the Statement to be made up this afternoon, the Specie line will show about half a million less than the total of last Monday, which stood $25,732,161. The interior exchanges are now making decidedly in favor of New-York, even at the South, and the probability is that through the remainder of the Spring and Summer, the receipts of Gold by Express will be large—in liberal proportion to the sums sent to the South and Southwest last Fall. The New-Orleans Banks, after attaining seventeen millions, or seven millions in excess of any former Spring, now begin to be drawn upon for the supply of the upper valley of the Mississippi and Ohio, where the exchange is already in favor of New-York ¼@¾ ℔ cent. The export demand for Specie this week—the Persia sailing direct on Wednesday—will be covered by the receipts nearly due from California. We have advices by telegraph vid New-Orleans that the San Francisco steamer, of March 20, left with $1,581,000, of which about $1,250,000 will come to New-York, and the remainder go direct from the Isthmus to England.

The Exchanges on Europe are a fraction higher than week before last. The standard bank drawers are asking 110 on London and f.5.12½@f.5.11¼ on Paris, and Southern and Canada bills on the former have been sold at 109¾@109¾. The market for Money held quite steady and on the same moderate terms quoted for some six weeks past both for discounts and loans on short notice. The range of first-class bills is 5 to 7 ℔ cent., and for loans to the Stock and Exchange Brokers 4@5 ℔ cent. The deposits at bank appear to be accumulating, and the probability is the discount line will show a further improvement on the statement to be made up to-day.

The Stock dealings of the week were active and generally interesting. The speculative sellers continue to preponderate at the Board, and the outside demand, until late in the week, opposed but little resistance to the freedom with which new contracts, for a further decline, were put out. At the same time it was sufficient, when added to the confidence shown by a small, but influential party of Bull operators, inside the Exchange, to check the progress of success on what is technically called the Bear side. The foreign news through the week was somewhat conflicting or unsettled until after the full summary by the Canada published on Saturday morning. This tended to strengthen the previous upward inclination of the market and with the influence of a rapid advance in the Shares of the Panama Road and Pacific Mail, carried prices up, at the close, nearly or quite 1 ℔ cent. The contest made against the recovery of New-York Central from the fall a week before last, was a prominent feature in the dealings. From 76⅞, as on Saturday week, the sales, which were 6,000 to 8,000 shares a day, fluctuated half a dozen times between 76¼@75¼, and on Saturday, after opening at 75⅞, advanced to 76⅝ ℔ cent. again—the outside orders for the stock gradually improving in amount. One or two heavy Southern buyers of Panama took 1,200 or 1,500 shares of the already reduced supply of cash certificates off the Street, and this demand and the wants of the speculators against the stock for delivery, put the price up 4 ℔ cent. In the case of Pacific Mail the advance from the lowest sales of the week was 8 ℔ cent. A telegraphic report vid New-Orleans on Saturday afternoon that the Vanderbilt opposition had been drawn off by GARRISON at San Francisco, added to the previous firmness and activity of the Stock. Some of the Brokers in the opposition questioned the truth in this report, insisting that in its broadest sense it must at least be premature. It will be noted that nearly all the Western Stocks improved at the close. The advance established on Galena, as compared with Saturday week, is ¾ ℔ cent.; Rock Island 1 ℔ cent.; Michigan Central, 1½; Southern Guaranteed, ¼ ℔ cent., after an extreme fluctuation of 2 ℔ cent.; and Illinois Central, 2½ ℔ cent. There is less movement than usual in Reading. The demand is active and strong for Hudson River and Harlem Preferred. The former was sold with some freedom by one or two parties at 33¼ on Thursday, but reacted to 33⅞@34 on Saturday. Harlem Preferred left off 41¾, and the old shares in demand at 13. The March earnings of the line are $88,278, against $83,224 last season. Delaware and Hudson was steady through the week, at 97½ ℔ cent. In State Stocks the market took a large amount of Missouris, both cash and on sellers' option, and the price further advanced 1 ℔ cent., making 2½ ℔ cent. rise for the fortnight. The Missouri Republican reminds us that we were mistaken, a few days since, in supposing that "the Legislature, at its recent session, refused to authorize an exchange for direct State bonds of the guarantee bonds issued, for the Southwest Branch, to the Pacific Railroad. Authority was given; but the present directory of the road have refused to exercise it, by declining to accept the act." Tennessees and Virginias are ¾ ℔ cent higher, and Californias have fully recovered the late decline, and stand 85@85½ ℔ cent. The operations in Government stock are not large; the price is the same as the previous week. The general market left off firm on Saturday afternoon.

The passenger business on the New-York roads has rapidly improved since the new Spring schedule of April 4 went into operation. The early morning train from Buffalo, over the New-York Central and Hudson River Roads, reaches Thirty-first-street by 9 o'clock P. M. The second, or steamboat train, also runs full. The Hudson River boats have had considerable difficulty in passing the bar at Castleton, a few miles below Albany, and measures are to be taken by the owners to deepen the channel. The upward merchandise traffic over the Central has also improved, and a large business is being drawn from Boston, as well as this City, which, under the exploded St. Nicholas compact with the Southern lines, was diverted to Philadelphia and Baltimore. From all we can learn from Albany and the Hudson River people, whatever may be thought of the recent change among the Stock operators in Wall-street, the managers of the Roads are abundantly satisfied that the step is in the right direction for their own stockholders, as well as the supremacy of the trade and travel of New-York. The facts presented in the second and well-advised communication in our last paper, over the signature of "New-York," have made an impression where the wisdom of the movement, by the Central management, was at
